LANGUAGE TRAINING CONTROVERSY SEEN

The new session of Congress will take up the controversial issue of how the Armed Forces and other Federal activities should provide language training.

Focal point of this inquiry will be the famed Army Language School at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif., from which the Air Force recently withdrew participation.

Next week's issue of The Journal will publish a special report by Col. James L. Collins, jr., USA, Commandant of the Army Language School.

Service Legislator Takes B-52 Flight At 74

REPRESENTATIVE Harry R. Sheppard (D-Calif) is fitted with a flight helmet before riding in a Boeing B-52G jet bomber at Eglin AFB, Fla. Helping the Congressman is Col. Edward A. Van Dyke, Deputy Commander for Operations of SAC's 4135th Strategic Wing. Aircraft Commander was Maj. Edwin McNeil. Representative Sheppard, 75 next month, is Chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Military Construction. He was accompanied on his Eglin visit by Maj. Gen. Augustus M. Mintor, Director of Civil Engineering at USAF Headquarters.

South Vietnam Overcomes Obstacles To Hold Its Place On Free World Front

SAIGON, VIETNAM
FREE Vietnam, having astounded the world by bringing order out of the chaos which followed the division of their nation by the Geneva agreement of 1954, is now working diligently to strengthen itself, with American assistance, both economically and militarily.

Here the 17th parallel, which divides it from the communist Vietminh regime to the north, does not have the same significance which the 38th parallel does in Korea. In Korea the dividing line is a genuine military "front line." If Communist aggression comes it will be across that line. Here in Vietnam, the 17th parallel was not such a "front line" division, for the free area to the south was heavily interlarded with Communists which had STRATEGIC AIR COMMAND chiefs, armed with scientific data obtained from flight surgeons throughout the world, are confident that combat crews will be capable of top-notch effectiveness during Airborne Alert flights of up to 24 hours in duration.

Pay, Promotion, Retirement Bills Are Set For '60 Capitol Action

(Armed Services Committees, Page 28)

MILITARY pay, promotion programs and retirement benefits will get careful Congressional scrutiny in the second session of the 86th Congress which convenes 6 January.

Although the 1960 harvest of Armed Forces legislation is not expected to yield a "bumper crop" as was the case in the years immediately following the Korean War, it's not going to be a "drought year" either.

Looking at legislative prospects, it is obvious that the Presidential election year will provide a favorable climate for the consideration of measures affecting the Service force of nearly 2.5 million men and women and their families.

Evidence of this trend can be seen in the Defense Department's action in advising Congress, even before the session got underway, that it favors a return to the traditional concept of basing retired pay on active duty pay (THE JOURNAL, 19 December). The Pentagon's official statement is published on Page 14.

The quick start expected on the retired pay legislation will clear the way for early hearings on one of the most controversial military proposals facing the legislators. The controversy stems largely from objections voiced by Senator John C.

Disputed Rockefeller Promotion Proposal Is Recalled By New Pentagon Directive

THE new Pentagon order requiring unified command staff assignments as a "must" for future promotion to flag and general officer rank in all of the Services (THE JOURNAL, 19 December) focuses new attention on a controversial recommendation made in the January 1958 Rockefeller Report.

Sources at the Pentagon and on Capitol Hill expressed concern this week that the Administration could be laying the groundwork for full implementation of the Rockefeller proposal.

The recommendation urged that all officers above the rank of brigadier general or equivalent should receive their permanent promotions from the Depart-

THE Commander-in-Chief of the Strategic Air Command, General Thomas S. Power, says that the $12 million Responsibility Pay law, approved in May 1958, should be implemented.

For SAC officers, this would mean about $2 million per year.

General Power also is urging that the Pentagon seek new Congressional authority for a $10 Alert Pay plan.

NATO Commander Will Leave:

Armed Forces Face '60 Statutory Loss Of Senior Generals And Admirals

THE Armed Forces will lose more than a score of senior generals and admirals in 1960 for statutory reasons.

Topping the list of losses is Admiral Jerauld L. Wright, USN, Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, and CInC, Atlantic and U.S. Atlantic Fleet. He has announced he will retire 1 March.

The Pacific Fleet Commander, Admiral Herbert G. Hopwood, 62 next November, also will end his active career in 1960, as will Admiral Walter F. Boone, U. S. Representative to the Military Committee and Standing Group of NATO, who will retire 1 March.

One four-star Air Force officer, General Charles P. Cabell, Deputy Chief of the Central Intelligence Agency since 1953, is slated for retirement in July. The Air Force also will lose Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, CofS to the U. S. European Command.

A major shuffle of top Army commanders is in prospect during the next 12 months.

During 1960, three lieutenant generals will attain a combination of 35 years service, 5 years in permanent two-star rank, and age 60, which means retirement in the Army. They are:

Lt. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, First

Army Commander at Governors Island, N. Y., who retires in February.

Lt. Gen. Charles E. Hart, head of the Army Air Defense Command, Colorado Springs, Colo., whose career is scheduled to end in June.

Lt. Gen. George W. Read, Second Army Commander, Ft. Meade, Md., whose retirement is due in July.

The President can retain on active duty any of the flag or general officers due for retirement, but it is certain that most, if not all, will leave active duty on their scheduled dates, or before.

The Commanding General of the Seventh Army in Germany, Lt. Gen. Francis W. Farrell, and the Army's Comptroller, Lt. Gen. William S. Lawton, both will be 60 in May. In the past, this has meant retirement in the Army in most cases.

There are exceptions. Lt. Gen. Samuel T. Williams, who heads the MAAG in Saigon, Viet Nam, was 62 last August.

In the Marine Corps, no senior officer retirements are in prospect following the completion on 31 December 1959 by General Randolph McC. Pate of four years as Commandant. He will be succeeded by Lt. Gen. David M. Shoup, now Marine Corps CofS, who will be given four-star rank. He will be 55 on 30 December. (See Page 20)

Additional details concerning retirements of generals and admirals by Services are found in this issue as follows:

Stennis (D.-Miss.), who will be responsible for the Senate hearings. He has indicated that he will want to look into a number of related problems, including the possibility of bringing the Services under a contributory retired pay system.

However, Pentagon clearance at such an early date of the draft measure to equalize retired pay will assure priority consideration. It also will speed action on other, lower-priority measures which might otherwise be delayed.

In addition to retired pay equalization, other major personnel measures which will receive top attention include those involving:

- Flight pay
- RIF pay and term contracts
- Retired employment
- Dual compensation
- Military justice
- Conflicts of interest
- Promotion and retirement

Congress also will be taking another look at Officer Responsibility Pay, which it authorized but which the Pentagon has not implemented, and at Proficiency Pay for enlisted men.

The Senate authors of the special officer pay (worth $12 million) will want to know why nothing has been done since the Pentagon set up the Clarey Committee last March to consider individual Service implementation proposals.

The enlisted Proficiency Pay (worth $45.2 million this fiscal year) is certain to come under the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee spotlight inasmuch as the group's ranking Republican, Representative Gerald R. Ford, Jr. (Mich.) has promised to keep an eye on the program's progress.

He has said that the Committee will be particularly interested to see that the Services do not continue to pay the extra money to individuals after they have been transferred out of the areas of responsibility for which the pay initially was rewarded.

The Armed Services Committees will want to know how the program is progressing, exactly how it has been implemented, and why the Services decided to make smaller pro-pay allotments than the maximums approved by Congress.

ROPA Action Due

There will be Capitol action next year on bills affecting the Reserve Officer Personnel Act, Marine Corps three-star billets, Air Force medals and a new Uniformed Services Contingency Option Act revision, now at the Bureau of the Budget.

Outside the personnel area, there will be hearings on military procurement, specifically the Saltonstall bill in the Senate to which considerable time was devoted during the first session, on civilian employment overseas, and on legislation to protect industry from liabilities resulting from unusual hazardous risks in the fulfillment of defense contracts.

There will be searching Congressional questions—with the possibility of special hearings—on a number of missile programs, including the Air Force Mace, which Congress tried unsuccessfully to cut, the Navy Polaris, for which a further speed-up may be ordered, and the Army Nike-Zeus, for which Congress provided additional funds, not yet released by the Pentagon, in the fiscal '60 budget.

Congressional recommendations for a consolidation of all Service medical research facilities in the aviation and space fields also will be brought into sharper focus, and there undoubtedly will be renewed statements on the desirability of further unification of the Services.

No New Reorganization

It is doubtful, however, that any serious effort will be made to force another major Armed Forces reorganization study during the current session inasmuch as the Congress will be meeting for only six months. There is also strong feeling that the 1958 reorganization needs a longer trial period.

On the medical research unification front, action is more probable. Secretary of Defense Gates must report to the House Appropriations Committee by 15 January as to the desirability of locating all space and aviation medical facilities at a single major location, with a few "branch" facilities. Whatever his recommendations, it is doubtful that the Committee will let the matter drop.

Broad Defense Department policies also will receive major attention in both open and closed hearings by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee and the Space, Appropriations and Armed Services Committees of both the House and Senate.

For the Preparedness group and the Space Committees, emphasis will be placed on the "missile lag." The Armed Services Committees will, for the first time, receive detailed briefings on major procurement policies (those principally involving aircraft, ships and missiles) in preparation for the first full-scale "authorization" bill on these programs in the 87th Congress.

Among the personnel bills, those of greatest interest to active duty career officers will be the flight pay measure, "White Charger" and the revised USCOA plan.

Early Hearings for "White Charger"

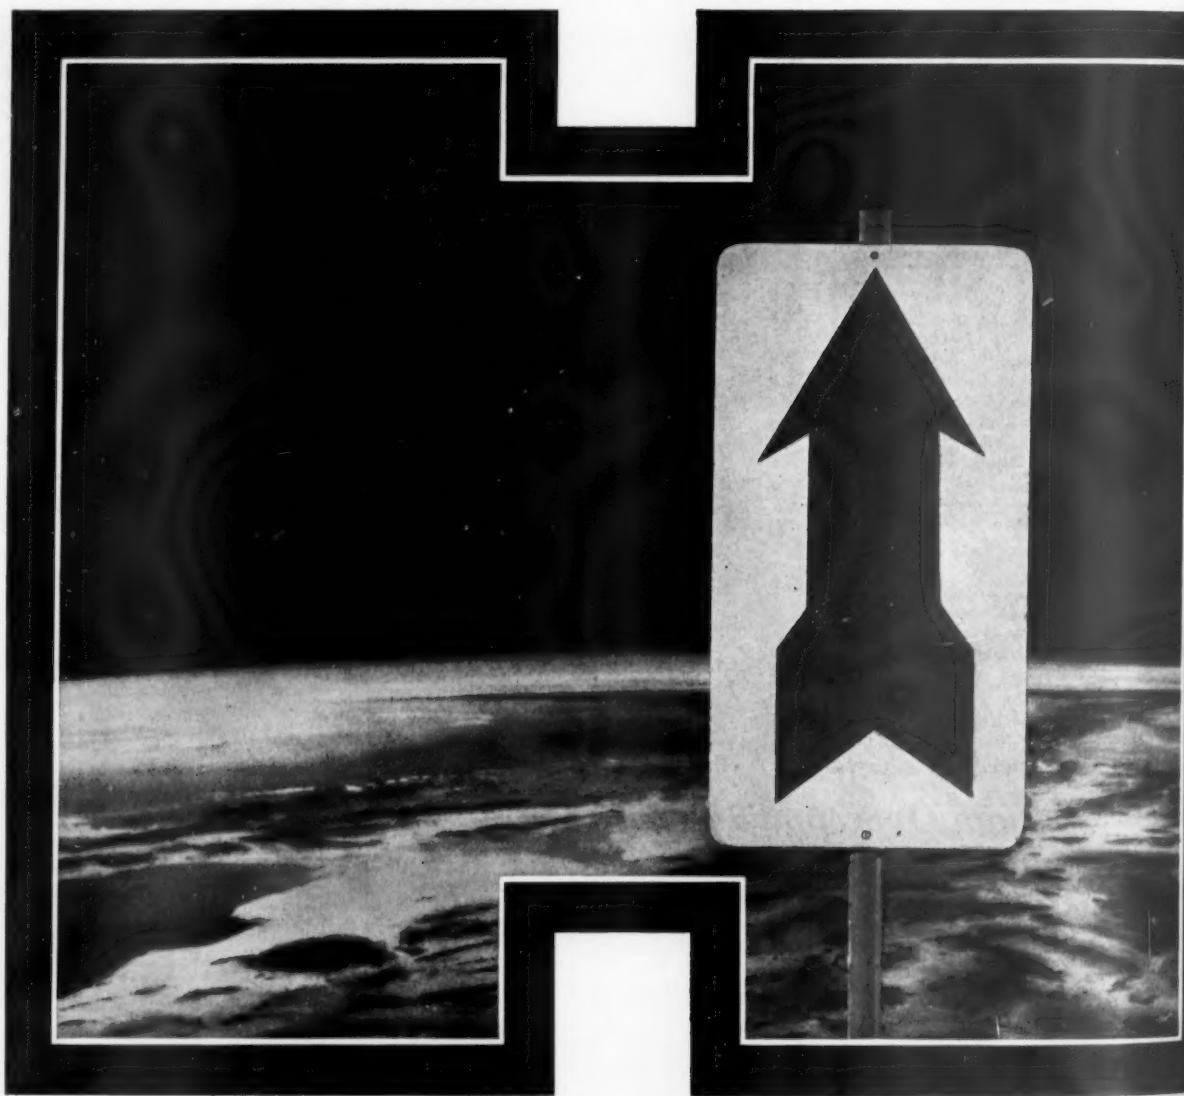

"White Charger"—the Career Officer

Management Plan—passed the Senate during the first session and will be one of the first measures to be scheduled for hearings by the Kilday House Armed Services Subcommittee. Its staff already is working on the bill.

Although it applies basically to the Air Force, with new rules for forced retirement and for "more competitive" advancement to the grades of major and lieutenant colonel, the bill covers the other Services, as well, and eventually will be utilized by the entire military establishment.

Its initial impact, following passage, which can be safely predicted, will be to force the early retirement of several hundred "non-producing" officers who have completed at least 20 years' service.

Sign of the times

Flight Pay Change Affects 1600

The proposal involving payment of proficiency flying pay—introduced in the last session but not acted upon—would give the Defense Department permanent authority to authorize payment of flight pay to several hundred officers who will not be required to fly.

This authority already is contained in the annual appropriations bills, but would be made permanent. Those for whom flight requirements would be eliminated include officers who have been on flying status and have held aeronautical ratings or designations for at least 20 years, and those whose assignment outside the U. S. or in Alaska makes it impractical for them to participate in aerial flights.

About 1600 officers fall into these categories in all four Services and could thereby qualify for exemption, but the Pentagon has said some in the group would be required to continue flying.

The proposal, when hearings are set, is certain to touch off an inquiry into the efficacy of the Defense Department's April '59 policy restricting proficiency flying. Under the restrictions now imposed, the Department has said it can save about $40 million annually. Taking advantage of this statement during fiscal '60 budget maneuvering, the Congress whacked several million dollars from proficiency flying funds requested by the Services. The subject of the savings will come up again in the new session.

Past actions of the Appropriations Committees indicate that they may attempt to force proficiency flying pay cuts. Those almost certain to be attacked in the process are the approximately 460 flag and general officers who receive flight pay.

USCOA Revisions Could Set Single Rate

Although the terms of the new USCOA bill, now at the Bureau of the Budget, have not been disclosed by the Pentagon, it is expected that the plan will set a single rate of payment for all retirees.

Members of the Armed Forces who retire for physical disability currently must pay higher rates than those leaving the Service for statutory reasons.

The plan also is expected to place new restrictions on USCOA benefits by limiting payments to those who have completed 20 years' service, but will liberalize option change authority.

If the measure clears the Budget soon after Congress meets, it will be assured early introduction in both Houses, but the prospects for equally rapid hearings are not too good in view of the urgency of other legislation left over from the previous session. This one may have to be returned to the 87th Congress.

Two Major Bills Affecting Reservists

Legislation affecting Reservists includes two major proposals which were approved by the House during the first session and which are now before the Senate Armed Services Committee for final action.

One is the omnibus-amendment bill to the Reserve Officer Personnel Act, and the other is the Reserve Officer Incentive bill, which, provides increased RIF payments and term contracts for active duty Reservists.

Both may find tough sledding as a result of (1) the Budget Bureau's opposition to the big (up to $20,404) RIF payments, and the provision forcing Defense to "presume" contracts for all officers with 14 years' service on the effective date of the bill, and (2) the Defense Department's failure to report its views to the Senate Committee on the ROPA amendments which were re-written in the House.

The Pentagon was asked for its views on the ROPA measure last August but the Committee has heard nothing.

The Reserve Officers Association reports that the latter bill "may turn out to be the most embattled bill of the Congress."

1960 Could Be Big Year For Retired

For retired officers, 1960 holds the promise of important developments.

First and foremost is the retirement equalization proposal restoring the traditional concept that retired pay should be based on active duty pay. With the President's backing and that of Representative Paul J. Kilday (D.-Tex.), the measure is likely to win House approval without undue delay, but its reception in the Senate will be less enthusiastic.

Retired officers also will be vitally interested in the USCOA bill, and in the Van Zandt proposal, HR 6833 (backed by the Defense Department) to provide additional benefits for some who retired before 1 October 1949 (date of the Career Compensation Act).

Except for pay equalization, measures which are certain to embody the greatest interest for retired officers include several whose content is not yet known.

These bills are expected to result from the forthcoming Hébert report on retired officers working for defense industries and to cover not only new rules for after-retirement employment in civilian jobs, but also recommendations concerning conflicts-of-interest and dual-compensation and dual-employment bars to Government jobs.

All of the legislative recommendations probably will be referred to the Kilday Subcommittee for further exploration and development of Committee bills to put the recommendations into effect.

The report, originally expected out before Christmas, is now due to be released shortly before or immediately after Congress reconvenes.

Senate Action Due On Bills

A number of proposals which passed the House during the first session will be awaiting Senate action. They include:

- Permanent authority (it is now temporary) for the Marine Corps to have five three-star generals in peacetime.
- Creation of two new medals to replace the Soldier's Medal and Distinguished Service Cross in the Air Force.
- Authority for the Secretary of the Navy to boost the pay of the Academic

Going up...and out into space...Hughes is applying its "mindpower" to the defense problems of tomorrow. A wide variety of new projects are being initiated. Here are just a few examples:

Space Ferry Systems—To provide the initial apparatus for space station assembly.

Communications Satellites—Unique packages for space satellite applications.

ALIRBM—Air launched intermediate range ballistic missiles.

Global Surveillance Satellite Systems—Designed to keep the world under surveillance.

Satellite Interception Systems—To destroy hostile satellites.

Meteor Communications—Scattering electromagnetic energy of meteors to establish long-range communications.

Futuristic Instrumentation Displays—Instrumentation displays for satellites and hypersonic vehicles.

This ability to initiate advanced new projects stems directly from Hughes pioneering position in electronics. This long experience includes the development of many important new concepts...unique new types of radar antennas which scan by electronic rather than mechanical means...packaging of entire electronic systems into low-cost, widely interchangeable modules...test equipment which rivals the Hughes Electronic Armament Systems in sophistication.

At Hughes Products, the commercial activity of Hughes, new ways have been found to cast silicon into desired configurations...and storage tubes with 21" diameters have been developed.

Diverse is the word for these Hughes projects. They cover a wide variety of fields. But when any one of them moves from the research and development stage into actual manufacture, it will have one vital common characteristic engineered in: Reliability.

Iroquois, Mohawk, Caribou And Chinook Seen Nucleus Of New Army Air Family

The Army has programmed four aircraft to form the nucleus of a new air family, Brig. Gen. Clifton F. Von Kann, Director of Army Aviation, has declared.

In a report last week to the Aeronautical Training Society in Washington, D. C., during which he forecast that the Army by 1970 "may be operating the largest fleet of manned aircraft in the Free World" (THE JOURNAL 19 December), General Von Kann listed the four aircraft in the design stage:

The HU-1 Bell "Iroquois" helicopter now going to troop units; the AO-1 Grumman "Mohawk" observation plane now undergoing engineering test; the DeHavilland "Caribou," the Army's largest aircraft, which is being tested at the Army Aviation Center, Ft. Rucker, Ala., and the HC-1B Vertol "Chinook" helicopter in the design stage.

Looking to the future, General Von Kann said he sees a "tremendous growth potential" in Army Aviation to meet the needs of the Army of 1965-70.

The Army Aviation Director said: "The most immediate problem seems to be in the light observation field."

Currently operating 5500 aircraft of 15 different types, the Army hopes to reduce the types, but General Von Kann said that "all studies for the future Army organization show an increasing aviation requirement."

"Some of these studies," he reported, "indicate only a modest increase. Others aim toward an entirely new magnitude."

Within the next few months, the Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va., is expected to complete a detailed forecast for the Army in the 1965-70 period.

"One of the biggest tasks now underway in my office," General Von Kann said, "is a forecast of the Army Aviation inventory in 1970. But using the best inputs from all sources, we hope to have a realistic picture—not just a fuzzy crystal ball dream."

He said an Army committee will evaluate new design concepts from industry "which we hope will lead to new hardware."

Stressing the contribution that Army Aviation is making to mobility, General Von Kann concluded:

"We cannot double the manpower of our Army, but we can more than double the potential use of this manpower through air mobility."

Army Names Officers For Staff Courses

THE Army has named the following officers for attendance at the 1960-61 Regular Course at the Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.; Air Force Command and Staff Course; Naval Command and Staff Course; Marine Corps Senior Course; and for anticipated quotas at comparable courses in foreign schools.

Master 'Chutist

COL. Robert H. Safford, CofS for the 101st Airborne Division and Ft. Campbell, Ky., has received the Master Parachutist Badge from Brig. Gen. John L. Throckmorton, Assistant Commander for Operations and Training.

The award was made following successful completion of 65 parachute jumps and an intensive examination in the principles of airborne operation.

Colonel Safford, assigned to the 101st in July 1957, commanded Support Group and Division Artillery before becoming CofS. He is also President of the Sports Parachute club there.

"Rattle Gun" Match Slated For Benning

ONE of the most famous courses of fire in national rifle competition, the Infantry Trophy rifle team match, will be introduced into the Army Infantry Center's rifle marksmanship championships to be fired next April at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Familiar among Army riflemen as the "rattle-gun match," it is the only one of its type in the Army's year 'round program of marksmanship, according to Lt. Col. Burton C. Boatright, Director of Marksmanship at The Infantry Center.

Firing is conducted on eight field, or silhouette, targets superimposed on "A-target" frames at 600, 500, 300 and 200-yard ranges by six-man teams.

Individual hits count four points at 600, three at 500, two at 300 and one at 200 yards with bonuses computed on the evenness of distribution of fire at each range.

"The total possible score for the course is virtually impossible to attain," said Colonel Boatright, who explained that a "possible" score would require perfect distribution of all 386 hits, all at long range. It would also mean that each rifleman would have to fire at a rate of over 60 rounds per minute during the 50-second time limit allotted at each stage.

While amassing is record-blasting 959 score to take the national trophy, the Army team, led by Capt. John R. Foster, Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, fired at a rate approximating but 30 rounds per minute, including reloading time.

Now that you have your choice, be sure—

Trust everything to your Allied Man

If your orders call for moving you can now select the van and storage company of your choice!

How better can you be sure of your belongings receiving the thoughtful care and gentle handling they deserve than to select Allied—the world's largest and most trusted van lines.

Allied has moved thousands of service families millions of miles. If your family is one of them you already know how reassuring it is to trust your Allied Man. Otherwise, ask a friend who has learned how completely Allied plans the move, wraps and packs your household goods and "settles" you in your new quarters.

Your Allied Man can offer through bill of lading service to virtually every military installation—everywhere throughout the world. It's your choice. Now use the best. Tell your transportation officer you want Allied service. Your Allied man can give you full details. Look under Allied Van Lines in your phone book.

Retirements Will Bring Changes In 13 Commands; Three 4-Star Posts Involved

Thirteen top Admirals will be retired for statutory age during the next 18 months.

The list includes Admiral Jerauld Wright, Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic; Admiral Herbert H. Hopwood, Commander in Chief, Pacific Fleet, and Admiral Walter F. Boone, U. S. Representative to the Military Committee and to the Standing Group of NATO.

The retirements also will result in changes of command for five Naval Districts and three Sea Frontiers.

Vice Admirals on the list of those who are approaching the statutory age limit (62) include Maurice E. Curtis, Commander, Western Sea Frontier; Thomas S. Combs, Commander, Eastern Sea Frontier and Third Naval District; Stuart H. Ingersoll, President of the Naval War College; and Lorenzo S. Sabin, jr., Chief of Staff and Aide, Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic.

Rear Admirals on the list are: Charles C. Hartman, Commandant, Eleventh Naval District; Frank T. Watkins, Commandant, Thirteenth Naval District; Edward A. Solomons, Commander, Hawaiian Sea Frontier and Commandant, Fourteenth Naval District; Francis M. Hughes, Commandant, Fifth Naval District; John W. McElroy (TAR), Deputy Commander, Naval Reserve Training Command, Omaha, Neb.; and Walter F. James (MC), Ninth Naval District Medical officer.

Unless they request earlier retirement, the 13 officers will leave the Service on the following dates:

- 1 March—Admiral Boone.
- 1 April — Vice Admirals Curtis and Combs.
- 1 July—Admiral Wright, VAdm. Ingersoll, RAdm. James.
- 1 August—RAdm. Hartman.

Gunnery Sergeants Chosen

The Commandant has approved the report of a selection board that recommended 1,412 Marine staff sergeants for promotion to gunnery sergeant.

Date of rank for the top 1,050 Marines selected will be 1 December, 1959. Increased pay will date from 11 December.

The remaining 362 Marines selected are tentatively scheduled for promotion next April, but actual promotion will depend on the existence of vacancies.

Eligible for consideration were acting gunnery sergeants and staff sergeants (E-6) with dates of rank prior to 18 July, 1957. On a recommendation of the board, the Commandant approved for promotion certain "particularly outstanding" Marines who had not been administered the GMST & technical test, or who had not passed them.

Key Shifts Told At Camp Lejeune

RAdm. Shinn Will Head Bravo Force

RAdm. Allen M. Shinn has assumed command of antisubmarine Task Group BRAVO at ceremonies aboard the USS WASP in Boston. Admiral Shinn succeeded RAdm. Robert J. Stroh as commander of the group, which is one of the Navy's three major antisubmarine specialist teams on the east coast.

After breaking his flag aboard the task group flagship, Admiral Shinn spoke briefly on the importance of antisubmarine warfare to our national defense. He said, "We must never fail in our ability to bind our allies together through ocean linked alliance. The rewards of success in antisubmarine warfare are so important to our country that we must leave no stone unturned in our search."

Admiral Shinn is married to the former Miss Seville Shuey Hayden of Berkeley, Calif. They have three sons: Allen Mayhew, a midshipman at Annapolis; James Washburn, who attends the University of California, Berkeley and Jonathon Hayden, a student at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

Admiral Stroh will be assigned as Chief of Staff to the Commander in Chief Pacific.

Rockefeller Promotion Proposal Is Recalled By New Pentagon Order

From first page—

ment of Defense and become officers of the Armed Forces of the United States. At the time, Representative Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.), second-ranking Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee and Congress' top military manpower expert, declared that the step "would create a more powerful general staff than any Prussian ever dreamed of accomplishing."

Three months after the Rockefeller recommendations were made public, President Eisenhower disclosed, in connection with his Defense Department Reorganization Plan, that he would revise the recommendation to provide a less-severe departure from past practices. The President told Congress he was "instituting a new personnel procedure for top-ranking officers" because he believes "that before officers are advanced beyond the two-star level, they must have demonstrated, among other qualities, the capacity for dealing objectively—without extreme Service partisanship—with matters of the broadest significance to our national security."

The Chief Executive advised the Pentagon that, in the future, he would "consider officers for nomination to these top ranks only on recommendations of the Secretary of Defense submitted to me after he has received suggestions of the Secretaries of the military departments and the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

The new system went into immediate effect and has been operative since that time.

Following disclosure of the new Defense Department promotion directive of one-star rank, THE JOURNAL learned that the action was prompted from the White House.

The Pentagon failed to discuss the decision with the Armed Services Committees, which wrote the basic promotion laws for all of the Services, Congress was not advised in advance of Pentagon plans.

Authoritative sources at the Capitol confirmed a forecast in last week's issue that Defense Department Chiefs will face questioning on the action in the coming session of Congress.

Because selection-board authority currently is vested in the individual Service Secretaries, questions will be raised about the legality of the Defense Secretary's move, which already is being interpreted by some as a usurpation of the powers which Congress wrestled vigorously to retain in the Service Secretaries.

Crux of the problem as it pertains to Pentagon-Capitol relations is the concern of legislators that the Defense Department may be trying to skirt specific provisions of law affecting promotions in the Services.

The new directive has hit with a powerful impact, particularly in major combatant commands, such as the Strategic Air Command.

In many cases, Service officials in Washington will find it impossible to tell officers whether or not they qualify for consideration to general and flag rank, without the necessity of a waiver.

One of the questions certain to be asked by Congress is how the new proposal will affect "field" assignments as compared with "staff" duties.

The Rockefeller recommendations also are certain to be brought back into the picture when defense leaders are called on to explain the directive.

Col. Griffin Of Princeton Wins AF Commendation

Col. Donald W. Griffin, USAFR, Princeton University Alumni Secretary, has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal. He is retiring from Reserve service.

Presentation was made by the Commander of the 2614th Air Reserve Center, Lt. Col. Hall F. Achenbach, during a ceremony at the headquarters of the 9257th Air Reserve Squadron, 790 River Road, Trenton, N. J.

The citation was read by Col. Richard G. Snyder, Commander, 9072d Air Reserve Group, Atlantic City. The officers and airmen of the Trenton Squadron under the command of Lt. Col. Thomas A. Deptula stood at present arms during the presentation.

Colonel Griffin received the award for distinguishing himself by outstanding meritorious service as Chairman of the Training Guidance Staff, Philadelphia Air Reserve Center during the period 1 August 1958 to 31 July 1959.

Guests at the ceremony included Mrs. Daniel DeBrier, wife of Brigadier General DeBrier, USAFR, Headquarters Continental Air Command; Cdr. Paul Griffin, USNR (Brother), and 1st Lt. and Mrs. James Q. Griffin, USAR (Son).

General Cabell, Lt. Gen. Barcus Top AF's '60 Prospective Retirement List

GENERAL Charles P. Cabell, 56, USMA '25, who has been Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency since April 1953, is slated for statutory retirement from the Air Force on 31 July 1960 upon completion of 35 years' service and 5 years in permanent two-star rank.

Although the Army policy is to retain such officers until attainment of age 60, it has been the Air Force practice for generals to retire with 35-and-5, regardless of age.

Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, 56, a '24 graduate of the University of Illinois, who has been CofS of the U. S. European Command in Paris since April 1957, is due to retire 31 October.

An Air Force lieutenant general will be appointed to succeed General Barcus, since the Deputy Commander of the U. S. European Command under General Lauris Norstad, USAF, EUCOM CinC, is newly appointed General Charles D. Palmer, USA.

The Air Force's first and only Judge Advocate General, Maj. Gen. Reginald C. Harmon, will retire 31 March.

SAC Urges Action On Pay

From first page—

gon that, just before he moved up from Secretary of the Air Force to be Deputy Secretary of Defense, Mr. James H. Douglas was briefed in detail on the two pay proposals.

Last week's issue told in a dispatch from SAC Headquarters at Offutt how General Power and top Manpower Deputy, Maj. Gen. W. K. Martin, consider the retention and expansion of SAC's "spot promotion" authority as the No. 1 need in the personnel area.

A Pentagon all-Service group has been studying Responsibility Pay for almost a year.

An Air Force board determined that SAC would receive about 55% of the Air Force recommended positions, with about 81% of this allocation going to crew members.

General Power told THE JOURNAL that "we feel very strongly that this legislation should be employed as one of the incentive tools we need to attract and retain a stable professional force."

Responsibility pay provides up to $150 per month for certain majors, lieutenant colonels and colonels.

General Power and General Martin, in interviews at SAC Headquarters, said the command will continue to press for approval of a plan which would authorize payment of $10 to SAC crew members for each 24-hour period they are on continuous alert.

It is estimated that individuals would receive about $75 per month, with an over-all cost of about $13.2 million per year.

SAC officials point out that the total training investment in one B-52 aircraft commander is about $1.2 million.

Asked about the relationship of Responsibility Pay and Alert Pay, SAC manpower authorities point out that Responsibility Pay is restricted to 5% captains and 10% majors.

This means that 82% of SAC's combat force is not eligible for Responsibility Pay.

Air Force Will Select New Regulars 10,156 Have Applied For Appointments

THE Air Force will convene selection boards next month, as indicated below, to name Reserve officers for Regular commissions from among 10,156 applications, more than a third of them from the Strategic Air Command.

Names of those chosen will be announced in March, and it is anticipated that appointment action will be completed by the end of July.

The Air Force said that a major delaying factor in the past has been failure of applications to notify USAF Headquarters of military address changes. Permanent changes of address should be submitted to USAF Headquarters by mail (AFPTR-3A) with information copy to appropriate major commanders.

Upon release of the selections in March, non-selectees should discontinue notices of address changes.

The Air Force said that competition for the new appointments will be "keen," with applicants competing with their contemporaries who applied in the same Promotion List Service Year Group computed as of 30 June 1960.

The two, three, four, and five year groups are eligible for consideration for the FY '60 Regular Air Force Line Program.

Shown below are the FY '60 Regular Air Force Line application figures by major command, on hand in USAF Headquarters as of 5 December. Dates shown below indicate when the selection board meets to consider each year group.

Summer Blue Garb Set For AF Wear

The Air Force has approved a tropical worsted, blue summer uniform for all members.

Adoption of the new uniform will be gradual, beginning on an optional basis for all personnel 1 May 1961.

It will not become a "prescribed item" for officers until the summer of 1962. For airmen, the "prescribed" date is 1 May 1963.

The silvertan shade 193 uniform items, coat and trouser, or shirt and trousers, maybe worn as optional summer clothing through 15 October 1965.

Unaffected will be the status of the "cotton, tan, shade 505 summer service uniform" as a required uniform for male officers and airmen.

The new uniform, officially designated the "lightweight blue shade 84 service uniform," consists of a coat and trousers identical in style, cut, and color to the familiar winter blue serge uniform and can be worn as an optional, year-round outfit.

The prescribed summer uniform for officers in 1960 will continue to be the silvertan shade 193 coat and trousers and the cotton, tan, shade 505 summer service uniform. In 1961 officers will wear the 505 and either the silvertan or the new lightweight blue uniform. The silvertan uniform can be worn as an optional item until 15 Oct. 1965.

Col. Miller Named AMC Deputy CofS

Col. James E. Miller has assumed duties as Deputy CofS at Air Materiel Command Headquarters, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

He succeeds Col. Julian H. Bowman, advanced to CofS.

Colonel Miller comes from Headquarters, Air Research and Development Command, Andrews Air Force Base, D. C., where he has been Executive Officer in the office of the Commander, since August, 1958.

Colonel Miller is married and has two children.

Project "M" Surveys Assignment Policies

Air Force personnel officials have launched a re-evaluation of assignment policies for Regular officers.

Under the name of "Project M," the Air Force will monitor the effectiveness and training reports and military records of all Service Academy graduates and distinguished graduates of the AFOTC, Officer Candidate School and Aviation Cadet Program who entered active duty as second lieutenants after 1 January 1959.

Data for the officer assignment study will be collected by the Personnel Laboratory at Lackland AFB, Tex.

To aid the study, the Air Force has required that effectiveness and training reports of the officers involved be labeled with the words "Project M" printed immediately above their names.

An extra copy of these reports, along with a copy of each officer's military record, will be sent to the Personnel Laboratory.

Are you getting both --

COVERAGE

PROTECTION

plus 38.8% SAVINGS* on your present auto insurance?

COVERAGE—You can buy USAA automobile insurance tailored to your needs — bodily injury and property damage liability — medical payment, comprehensive and collision — and uninsured motorist coverage (where permitted by State law). Not only must the insurance you carry be adequate to meet possible claims, but it must be with a sound company. USAA offers you both.

PROTECTION—USAA is the oldest (established 1922), largest (over 1/2 million policies in force), and strongest (over $56 million in assets) reciprocal insurance organization serving primarily the U.S. Armed Forces officers.†

SAVINGS—No other insurance company, aimed at serving the U.S. Armed Forces officers, offers the same automobile insurance coverage at the big savings offered eligible‡ USAA policyholders—a saving that currently amounts to 38.8% off standard rates, on stateside policies.

USAA understands the problems of those in the services, for active and retired officers of the U.S. Armed Forces organized and continue to direct this non-profit association. No salesmen are employed nor are any commissions paid, and insurance is made available direct to the policy holder at cost.

In all probability, wherever you serve, USAA can serve you. Claims are settled promptly, even in remote places†. In addition to automobile insurance, you can also save money on a USAA policy covering Comprehensive Personal Liability—or world-wide protection with the Household Goods and Personal Effects Floater.

Give yourself dependable protection at low cost with USAA.

A Word Of Assurance Minimum Need

Secretary of Defense Gates should waste no time in amplifying the new directive concerning promotions to general and flag rank, which we published in full text in last week's issue. Unless he takes action to assure Service career officers that there is no intention summarily to "change the rules in the middle of the game," a serious morale problem will result.

The directive, which asserts the need for Joint, Combined, Allied, and OSD Staff service as a qualification for star rank, does provide for waivers. What is needed now is for Secretary Gates to make it known that the waiver authority will be used.

His failure to make this known will mean inevitable speculation among officers of the Armed Forces that the waiver provisions may be lifeless in terms of their implementation.

There is no question that the Pentagon has made it much more difficult for large numbers of officers to qualify for star rank through no fault of their own. In many cases, the lack of the newly stipulated staff experience results from extended service with combatant units.

If Secretary Gates does not provide such a word of assurance, we hope Congress will demand it.

At Trip's End, A Salute To A Service Daughter

At this holiday season, as in the past years, thousands of members of Service families have been "Ambassadors of Good Will" in all parts of the world. Wives and daughters of officers and noncommissioned officers have helped raise the spirits and warm the hearts of fellow citizens of the Free World by their many devoted acts of kindness and sympathetic understanding.

As a symbol of the great humanitarian achievements of all our "People of Service," we at THE JOURNAL want to extend a special seasonal salute to a Service daughter and wife—and, we must add quickly, a Service daughter-in-law, too.

We refer, of course, to Mrs. John D. Eisenhower. At the side of her husband and father-in-law, Barbara Eisenhower has won the hearts of the people in 11 nations on President Eisenhower's pre-Christmas mission of "peace and good will."

The former Barbara Thompson, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Percy W. Thompson, USA-Ret., has brought conspicuous honor to her family, to the Armed Forces, and to our entire Nation. To her and to all of the wonderful "People of Service," we say well done, indeed, and a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Thailand Works For Collective Security

BANGKOK, THAILAND

Our ally Thailand has an individuality that sets her apart from the rest of Asia and belies much of what many Americans have heard about Asian people. Her long history of independence and the fact that she has never been a colony permeates and colors all of her life and activities. Thailand is politically and economically stable. She has a hard currency. Furthermore, Thailand not only produces enough to live and eat comfortably, but exports considerable agricultural products, notably rice and corn.

The people of Thailand are proud to point out that their kings have taken great care of the liberties of the people and that those who were remiss in this respect did not last long. In fact, the Thai monarchs have traditionally led the people in progress, many of them rising above their times. Like the British, the Thai people respect and honor their royalty, which serves as a cohesive factor for the entire nation, yet at the same time they love and guard their individual independence and freedom.

The Thai government, while determined to keep up its armed strength and be prepared to resist aggression, also has a philosophy that force alone can not establish long lasting security. They are seeking to devote their energies to creating a more permanent structure, a sound political, social, and economic establishment. They want to embrace modern western methods, but feel that they must adapt them to their own needs and their own race.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman told the CINCPAC Press Group of plans which he has been discussing with neighboring nations for the formation of a Southeast Asia Community. He sees this as a means for getting together informally to discuss local aims and talk over economic and social problems. Such a neighborhood association, he says, would supplement and help the SEATO organization.

The Foreign Minister stressed that it is the ambition of Thailand to play a role in the affairs of Southeast Asia to help the common interests and ideals.

Thailand's active interest in helping the Free World was demonstrated by her contributions to the United Nations' defense of Korea. Even today, Thailand continues to maintain a small but efficient force in Korea.

Fear Expressed Officers May Resign To Join Militia; Farragut's Promotion Wins High Praise

10 Years Ago—The Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps have had a combined strength of 1,578,000. Latest Army strength was reported at 659,400; Navy, 420,100; Air Force, 416,500; and Marine Corps, 82,000.

50 Years Ago—We hope there is no truth in the suggestion that officers of the Army who find themselves hampered in their work by the economies of Congress are proposing to resign and join the organized militia in the hope that they may in this way secure more liberal treatment.

95 Years Ago—Congress and President have seldom done anything so pleasing to "all hands of us"—as one of the Hartford's tars would say—as the establishment of the rate or grade of vice-admiral, and the promotion of the brave Farragut to that new rank.

READERS' VIEWS

Warrant Officer Injustice

■ I want to thank you for the interest you have taken in the retired pay situation for retired persons in the armed forces.

No doubt a bill will be introduced in the coming session of Congress to equalize the retired pay and in this connection your attention is respectfully called to the following:

Under the act of 1938 commissioned officers of the Navy other than commissioned warrant officers were permitted to retire after 20 years service.

Under the act of 1942 officers who served prior to 1918 and who were recalled to active duty in World War II and subsequently re-retired were authorized to draw ¾ pay. Commissioned Warrant Officers have been excluded in this payment by the General Accounting Office because of the act of 1938.

It would seem fair if all persons regardless of rate or rank be retired on the same percentage basis. In other words all persons retired and who served prior to 1918 and then recalled to active duty and re-retired should be paid ¾ pay.

In my case, I was excluded because I am a retired Chief Warrant Officer. If I had been a second lieutenant in the Army or an Ensign in the Navy I would be drawing ¾ pay, whereas I am drawing half pay.

Anything you can do for the few of us that have been excluded will be appreciated.

EDMUND P. GOGGIN
CHIEF WARRANT OFFICER,
U. S. NAVY (RET)
RICHMOND, VA.

What About Title III Retirees?

■ Many thanks to the good JOURNAL for continuing work for early legislation for equal retirement pay for all of us old vets, "regardless of when and how, or under what authority each was retired."

We have heard that the pending Senate bill, co-sponsored by Senator Holland (D-Fla.), actually provides only for retirees now under the Career Compensation Act of 1949. What a travesty of justice. What inept wording of a bill. What about those retired under Title III, Public Law 810, etc?

Why the Pentagon delay, since Ike has approved the bill for OK early in January 1960?

Please keep hammering away on your good work in aiding early action.

President Sends Holiday Greetings To Members Of The Armed Forces

ARMED Forces personnel throughout the world have received Christmas greetings from President Eisenhower. Dispatched from the USS Des Moines in the Mediterranean the text of the President's message follows:

"This year I send my Christmas greetings to the military and civilian men and women of our Armed Forces, and to their dependents, from the United States Ship Des Moines in the Mediterranean. In the past two weeks I have visited lands where several of the great religions of mankind were conceived. I have talked with leaders of different racial and national backgrounds, and with differing religious beliefs. I have come away from these talks convinced that regardless of such differences, all of us share a common hope in the destiny of mankind: that is to live in a world of friendship, understanding, and mutual progress.

"Men and women of our Armed Forces, wherever stationed, represent our country's historic willingness to sacrifice for the fulfillment of this hope. As we observe Christmas at home and abroad, I want you to feel some of the renewed confidence and faith that has come to me in the course of these meetings with leaders of other countries. I believe we can continue our work throughout the coming year strong in the knowledge that the future can be successfully employed by brave and generous men united in the building of peace on earth.

"Merry Christmas and God bless you all.

/Signed/ "DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER."

South Vietnam Overcomes Obstacles To Hold Its Place On Free World Front

From first page—

to be subdued to stabilize the new government.

Even today, the great threat is from bands of trained Communists who terrorize the villagers, killing and kidnapping. The suppression of these groups has been one of the great achievements of President Ngo Dinh Diem's new government. It remains a continuing process.

The destruction of roads and bridges over the many years of war has worked to the benefit of the Reds. When local attacks occur the great problem is to be able to reach the area with troops or police in time to cope with it. Thus the building of roads, bridges, and airstrips is considered of vital military importance as well as necessary for the economic development of the country.

Vietnam Strength

The youthful Assistant Secretary of State for National Defense, Mr. Iran Trung Gung, in a meeting with the CINCPAC Press group touring the Far East, revealed that the present military strength of the Vietnam forces totals 141,434, of which 112,780 are in the regular active establishment, 5,385 in the Reserves, and 23,269 conscripts. The Geneva Agreement provided that forces and weapons would be frozen as of that 1956 date. While south Vietnam did not sign the agreement she indicated she intended to abide by it. By its terms, then, Vietnam is authorized a total strength of 150,000, but it can not bring in advanced types of weapons. Thus her small air force is frozen to the Grumman F8F Bearcats and Douglas C-47s and are not getting into jets.

Of her total force, 93.5 per cent is in the Army, and 52 per cent of these are infantrymen. Her Navy constitutes 3.5 per cent and Air Force only 3 per cent of the total.

Her regular establishment has 5,982 commissioned officers, 22,477 non-commissioned officers, and 84,323 enlisted personnel.

About three-quarters of the cost of her Armed Forces comes from U. S. aid. But Vietnam appropriates about 600,000,000 piasters—about 40 per cent of her total budget—for her military forces.

L/G Williams Heads MAAG

Assisting and advising in the organization and training of her forces is the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group here. It is headed by Lt. Gen. Samuel T. Williams, USA, who has been here since he succeeded Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel in 1955.

Maj. Gen. John F. Ruggles, USA, is Deputy Chief for Training, and Brig.

Gen. James B. Lampert, USA, Deputy Chief for Logistics.

Assisting and advising the small Vietnamese Navy and Air Force are Capt. John J. Flachsenhar, USN, and Col. Ralph R. Patterson, USAF.

Total personnel in the MAAG is 342. Also here, and under General Williams' supervision, are 350 American technicians in the Temporary Equipment Recovery Mission, referred to as TERM. Chief of TERM is Col. John E. Robb, USA.

TERM's function is to gather the varied types of equipment abandoned all over the country. Some is reconditioned and reissued to the Vietnamese forces, others are shipped to Japan for rebuilding, and, others, beyond rehabilitation, are sold for scrap. This material came from many sources. Some was originally French equipment. Others was of U. S. origin and turned over to the French either in Europe in WWII or here during the long period of fighting. In addition there was abandoned and seized Japanese equipment.

TERM has made great progress and it is anticipated that it will complete its work and be staged out during the coming year.

The objectives of the U. S. program here are, primarily, to assist it in retaining the defense capability permitted it under the Geneva agreement, and to encourage it to remain allied with the free world.

In both of these objectives it has the entire accord of the Vietnamese authorities. Although they can not build up new equipment, the Vietnamese military personnel have shown themselves particularly adept at maintaining and operating the equipment and weapons they are allowed under the Geneva accord. Many of their people have been to the military schools in the United States and have returned to assist and instruct their fellow officers here. The U. S. liaison officers with the Vietnamese forces find ready and willing students.

Tactics Problem

Militarily, the principal problem has been one of tactics. The Vietnamese had been so long under the tutelage of the French authorities that they were imbued with the doctrine of static defense. Their tendency, therefore, was to build defensive perimeters around cities. Against the infiltration and guerrilla methods at which the Communists are so skilled these tactics were fatal, for the Reds would merely bypass them and take over the villages and outlying areas where they were strong anyway.

The problem therefore has been to show the Vietnamese the value of mobility and flexibility while maintaining the strength of large, self contained military units.

With the problem of internal security looming as large, or larger, than external security, well thought out tactics become especially important. The civil guards and militia-type organizations contribute substantially to meeting the problem of subversion and terrorism in the rural areas where it is most severe, but they are not always able to cope with it without the aid of the military. Yet the military must resist the temptation to split itself into small anti-subversion units and thus weaken its capability to operate on the larger scale against external aggression.

Another legacy from the days of the

AN EDITORIAL

Strong Leadership Wins Vietnam Freedom

SAIGON, VIETNAM

The remarkable success of Vietnam in beating the Communists out of the area south of the 17th parallel and in creating a government which has won the recognition of more than 50 other nations may be attributed primarily to the will and determination of their president, Ngo-dinh-Diem.

Following the Geneva agreement of 1954, there were few governments of the world, or observers of international affairs, who did not believe that the worn-torn, disorganized, and politically divided southern area would soon fall prey to the roving bands of Red terrorists infesting its rural areas. That it would be engulfed by its Communist neighbors to the north seemed an foregone conclusion.

But they had not counted on the administrative ability and dogged determination of Ngo who at the time of the agreement had just accepted the office of President of the Council of Ministers. At the elections in the following years he became President.

Members of the CINCPAC Press Group who were received at the President's home here could sense some of the qualities that enabled Ngo-dinh-Diem to solidify his people and bring them into the family of free nations.

While well aware of the primary need for well organized and efficient military forces to hold back the Red threat, President Ngo knows that the economic condition of his people must be such that they will be able to resist the appeal of the continuous barrage of Communist propaganda. A great achievement was his program for the rapid absorption of the refugees who fled from the Communist regime to the North and flooded his country. It is estimated that between 800,000 and 1,000,000 migrated into the new nation of south Vietnam. A program of rehabilitation was vigorously pursued, so that today this vast influx has been put on land of their own and are making suitable livings for their families. Furthermore, they are determined as are all south Vietnamese, that the land they own and cultivate will remain theirs, to be defended by their lives against any aggressor.

President Ngo emphasized to his American press visitors that this area of southeast Asia is both rich in resources and strategically located. To deny it to the Reds is of importance to the free world as well as to the Vietnamese, he declared. He recognized the aid and assistance provided by the United States and Vietnam's dependence upon free world support. He is determined, he said, to maintain strong Vietnamese forces, stressing that small nations must be able to defend themselves against aggression until their allies of the free world can come to their support.

The U. S. support of Vietnam has been subjected to considerable study and inspection—as one American here put it “they troop through here like Grand Central Station.” But no one yet has denied that Vietnam is one nation which has been literally wrenched from the grasp of the Communists and that it is daily growing in importance as a valued ally of the Free nations and a strong link in the western Pacific's defenses against Communist expansion.

New Equipment Urgent Need

With U. S. Military Help, Thailand Builds A Small, But Effective Fighting Force

BANGKOK, THAILAND
BACKED by an age-long tradition of independence and freedom, strongly anti-communist Thailand is busily engaged in training its military toward what American observers here believe will be one of the finest small forces in the world.

Thailand, always willing to fight for her freedom, stands alone in this part of the world as a nation which has never been a colony.

Communism holds no appeal for the Thais. While they may not be affluent, the Thais have ample to eat and life is pleasant.

Agriculture constitutes 85% of the economy, providing not only a good liv-

Thailand is an ardent participant in the collective security arrangements of the Free World.

The Thailand Foreign Minister, Than-at Khoman, told the CINCPAC Press group here that his people realize that theirs is a strategic area offering various invasion routes to an aggressor. “Control of Thailand,” he said, “is control of the vast area of Southeast Asia.”

This dispatch from Bangkok is another in a series of special on-the-scene reports to Journal readers from the far-flung Pacific Command by Editor-Publisher LeRoy Whitman. In the issues of 28 November, 5 December, 12 December, and 19 December he has filed dispatches from CINCPAC and Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine headquarters in Hawaii, from Japan, Korea, and Taiwan.

Next week's issue will feature additional coverage of how the U. S. Forces in the Pacific and those of our Allies are strengthening the defense of the Free World.

In the issue of 9 January, there will be an over-all assessment of the progress that has been made and the problems which confront the Pacific Command under Admiral Harry D. Felt, USN.

A JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

ing for the people but leaving a surplus to export. Together with Burma, Thailand is the rice bowl of Asia. About 90% of the Thai farmers own their own land, averaging about 10 acres each, which is about the limit one family can tend.

ANXIOUS TO UNIFY manpower policies in the Armed Forces as much as possible, Congress will be curious to learn during the next session why the Services have different rules for retirement of admirals and generals. The Army, for example, makes it a practice of holding its generals who have permanent two-star status until they have 35 years in service, 5 years in permanent rank, and have reached the age of 60.

THE AIR FORCE DIFFERS from the Army in that its generals with 35-and-5 are retired in the month they attain that status, regardless of their age. Many more Navy officers serve beyond age 60 than is the case in the Army and Air Force.

THE NAVY WILL PRESENT to the new session of Congress a dramatic progress report on the shift from "oil to atoms" and the replacement of guns with missiles. The report will be angled to the fact that Navy plans call for operational status late next year of the first nuclear-powered Polaris submarine, the George Washington.

THE AIR FORCE WILL BE WATCHING the standings on the seniority list of the general officers from ARDC and AMC who head major joint weapons activities, such as ARDC's Ballistic Missile Division and AMC's Ballistic Missile Center at Inglewood, Calif. The Air Force announced last week that Maj. Gen. Ben. I. Funk, who commands BMC, will be moved to command of the San Bernardino Air Materiel Area at Norton AFB, Calif., and will be succeeded by Brig. Gen. Don Coupland, Deputy Commander at San Bernardino. General Coupland is slated for a second star, but will be junior to Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, who commands BMD, as successor to Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, ARDC Commander.

UPCOMING COLONEL ASSIGNMENTS in the Army will draw particular interest in view of the fact that new promotions to brigadier general are in prospect. First indication that a particular officer has been tapped for star rank could come in assignment orders. The Navy announces a full slate of flag officer selections, but the Army procedure is to withhold release of a complete list.

ON THE BASIS OF RECENT SPEECHES, it appears that Secretary Wilber M. Brucker intends, in his forthcoming Congressional testimony, to give renewed emphasis to the ground combat role of the Army. The Secretary will tell, of course, of Army achievements in space explorations and missile weapons, but he will give strengthened accent to the fundamental ground warfare role of the Army. In this, Secretary Brucker will follow up recent addresses in which he has stressed the Army's contribution to Free World security forces along the Iron and Bamboo Curtains.

BATTLE GROUP CONTROL OF HELICOPTERS, now centered at the division level, is advocated in an article by Maj. Leo D. Turner in the current issue of the Ft. Benning, Ga., Infantry Center's official publication. Major Turner calls for organic air for the battle group, which he says normally may be expected to defend 48 square kilometers with commonplace 15 kilometer attack frontages. The article, certain to stir much discussion in the Army, suggests a possible 8 copter allocation to battle group command, including 2 for aerial reconnaissance, surveillance and target acquisition (RESTA), 1 for command and liaison, 3 for resupply and 2 as weapons platforms, equipped with SS 10/11 anti-tank missiles.

THE AIR FORCE'S "MR. HOLLYWOOD" has retired at Orlando AFB, Fla. He is Col. Robert E. Kearney, long associated with military motion pictures and training films and for the past eight years Chief of the Photographic Division of the Air Photographic and Charting Service, which produces up to 700 complete pictures each year. Colonel Kearney, who resides at 2101 Palm Lane, Orlando, will continue his motion picture profession in civilian life. His son, Gene, is a motion picture producer with the Harvard Foundation in Boston.

ALERT PAY FOR SAC CREWS, strongly advocated by General Thomas S. Power, CinC (see Page 1), undoubtedly will continue to encounter strategic opposition in some Pentagon circles and at the Bureau of the Budget. Many members of Congress would support the plan, if given an opportunity to vote on it, but that does not seem likely without action from the Pentagon, which would come only after an all-Service study.

ON THE RESPONSIBILITY PAY FRONT, SAC is leading all other Service organizations in pressing for its implementation. There is reason to believe that with former Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas now serving as Deputy Defense Secretary that this plan will receive influential top-level support at the Pentagon. There is no question that Defense Department officials are going to be interrogated in the forthcoming session of Congress regarding the failure to put this law into effect. In the 19 months since its enactment, there has been plenty of time to draw up necessary regulations.

VULNERABILITY OF NUCLEAR SUBMARINES to attack is being claimed, of all places, in a Navy publication. The official publication of the Destroyer Force, "Destroyerman," tells its readers: "Did you know that destroyers in no holds barred mock combat with nuclear powered submarines continuously tracked SSN's for hours and successfully delivered destructive attacks?"

THE MILITARY ASSISTANT to the Secretary of Defense, Brig. Gen. Carey Randall, USMC-Ret., who has served at the Pentagon for more than 9 years, is going to leave active duty. General Randall, who was given a "spot" promotion to his present rank, was retired in 1959, and was immediately recalled to duty. His retirement came after a Marine Corps selection board had failed to choose him for one-star rank.

IT WILL BE BROWN AND BLACK in the office of Secretary of Defense Gates. Expected to be named as successor to General Randall is Brig. Gen. George S. Brown, USAF. He served as Military Assistant to Mr. Gates when the latter was Deputy Defense Secretary. Also in the Secretary's office is Col. Edwin F. Black, USA, who had been serving in the Deputy Secretary's executive suite.

A TOP PENTAGON LEGISLATIVE OFFICIAL, Maj. Gen. C. J. "Johnny" Hauck, USA, will retire shortly. He is Deputy Assistant to the Secretary of Defense for Legislative Affairs. It is not certain whether he will be replaced by a civilian appointee or by another officer.

CIVIL SERVICE LEADERS reportedly have been exerting behind-the-scenes pressure to deter the Hebert Subcommittee from proposing any sweeping elimination of restrictions which bar utilization of many retired military officers in civilian positions. Good guess is that the forthcoming Hebert Report will seek to liberalize the restrictions, but largely for posts that are outside the Civil Service.

THE PACIFIC AIR FORCES face a further slash in 1960. The Air Force had hoped to meet budget cuts by reducing its strength in Europe—perhaps by as much as 3 wings or 15 squadrons. However, political pressures have forced the Air Force to abandon that plan. As a consequence, the rumor in PACAF is that it will be forced to take the brunt of the overseas cuts. Already at minimum strength, PACAF cannot afford any new reductions without impairing combat effectiveness.

A CUT IN U. S. AIR STRENGTH in the Pacific is certain to alarm our Far East allies. They will protest to Washington, but apparently their protests will not be as effective as those which reached Washington from NATO.

THE CINCPAC PRESS TOUR of the Pacific, which saw a Journal representative travel more than 26,000 miles during the past month, brought out the fact that our Armed Forces throughout the vast area feel that they are being neglected in comparison with Europe. And that feeling certainly is shared by the Free World Allies in the Pacific.

TWO MILLION DOLLARS WILL RIDE on the vigor with which the Pentagon pushes its plan to equalize retired military pay, effective 1 February. This requires quick hearings on Capitol Hill. Any delay which would see legislative action held up until after the end of January could mean a 1 March, or later, effective date. President Eisenhower originally had suggested a 1 January effective date.

COST OF THE BILL will be about $2 million per month during the first year. The cost will decline in the years ahead as a result of deaths on the retired list.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES WILL SEEK information in the 1960 session concerning the effects of the Cordiner Plan. The new pay structure went into effect 1 June 1958, and legislators feel that there has been sufficient time to obtain trend information as to its impact. Pentagon studies show that there has been a marked rise in over-all retention rates, but the build-up of "hard core" skill is not yet satisfactory. Some Service people are pointing out that the budget-pinching $30 proficiency pay, compared with a $150 maximum authorized by Congress, permits an electronics specialist to receive only $1 per day more than someone in a "soft skill" area, such as a cook.

THE PENTAGON'S NEW PROMOTION DIRECTIVE is going to make it a difficult choice for a colonel or Navy captain who has the possibility of (1) attending the National War College or Industrial College of the Armed Forces and (2) getting a Joint Staff, SHAPE or other assignment which qualifies him for general or flag officer consideration. Attendance at a top Joint-Service school does not fill the new requirement.

CNO BURKE'S WWII FLAGSHIP is now part of the Spanish Navy. The former USS Converse, lead ship in then Captain Burke's famed DesRon 23 "Little Beavers," is now the Almirante Valdes and is being used as a training ship at Cartagena. At the request of her skipper, Cdr. J. DeLizalde, the Almirante still carries the campaign ribbons with 11 battle stars and the Presidential Unit Citation which the Converse won in WWII.

Here Are New Social Security Rates

SOCIAL Security tax deductions for Armed Forces personnel will increase from 2½ to 3 per cent effective 1 January, with $144 the maximum amount to be deducted per year.

When basic pay exceeds $4800 per year, the tax will be prorated during the months in which the Armed Forces member receives the first $4800.

Thus, the pay of a lieutenant colonel with over 20 years service is $745 per month, which exceeds $4800 per year. The monthly Social Security tax will be 3% of $745 or $22.35 for the first six months of the year and $9.90 for the seventh month. No tax will be deducted in this case from August through December.

The rates will not change again until January 1963.

Here is the new monthly deduction schedule for officers and warrant officers:

Pay grade	Under 2	Over 2	Over 3	Over 4	Over 6	Over 8	Over 10	Over 12	Over 14	Over 16	Over 18	Over 20	Over 22	Over 26	Over 30

Two Citadel Officers Are Song Writers

The Citadel, Charleston, S. C., has two song writers among its faculty and staff officers.

One, Maj. A. Preston Price, USA, is a 1943 graduate who, as a senior cadet, wrote the lyrics for The Citadel's "Alma Mater," the music of which was composed by the late Capt. Carl Metz, then director of The Citadel band.

The other, Col. Forrest J. Agee, USA-Ret., now an associate professor of education at the military college, wrote both words and music for The Citadel's new "Fight Song."

St. Peter's College Honors Army Vice Chief Of Staff

General George H. Decker, Army Vice CofS, received an honorary degree recently at an award ceremony and dedication of the new ROTC building at St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N. J.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Military Vicar of the Armed Forces, also was honored in ceremonies attended by Father James J. Shanahan, President of the College, and Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Curtis, CG of II Army Corps (Reserve), in charge of ROTC and Army Reserve activities in New York and New Jersey.

Secretary Gates Tells Congress Pentagon Can Find Retired Funds

Here is the text of Secretary of Defense Gates' letter on retirement equalization, addressed to Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee. A similar letter went to Chairman Richard Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee:

"REFERENCE is made to your request for the views of the Department of Defense with respect to H. R. 703, H. R. 2912, H. R. 2973, and H. R. 5113.

"The apparent purpose of the bills is to authorize those members and former members of the uniformed services who became entitled to the receipt of retired or retainer pay prior to June 1, 1958, and whose retired or retainer pay was based on rates of pay contained in Section 201 (a) of the Career Compensation Act of 1949, as amended, to recompute their entitlement to such pay on the basis of the new and higher rates of pay provided by the Act of May 20, 1958, (P. L. 85-422). Although the language of the bills is somewhat ambiguous, it appears that the resultant increase in retired or retainer pay entitlement would accrue from the first day of the month following the date of enactment.

Technical Deficiencies

"An examination of the bills reveals certain technical deficiencies which would prevent them from completely achieving their apparent purpose. Therefore, there is attached for consideration a substitute draft bill which will eliminate these deficiencies without making any substantive changes.

"Public Law 85-422 specifically excluded personnel retired prior to 1 June 1958 from the benefits of the new pay rates and in lieu thereof authorized such personnel, except those with less than two years' service, a 6% increase in their retired or retainer pay. This treatment of retired personnel was a departure from the traditional concept of relating retired pay increases to active duty compensation and operated to nullify certain provisions of title 10, United States Code, which provide for personnel on the active list are changed, the retired pay to which personnel are entitled shall be recomputed on the basis of the new rates. Also the inevitable result of a "cut-off" date, such as the effective date of Public Law 85-422, is to produce some disparities in rates of retired pay among personnel of the same grade and length of service, depending on date of retirement.

"It should be noted that the proposed pay bill submitted to the Congress last year by the Department of Defense had as its objective a fundamental, sweeping change in the active duty military pay system rather than a pay raise as such.

Under that bill some 38% of the personnel on active duty would have received no increase in basic pay except for a temporary 6% cost-of-living adjustment. Subsequently the House of Representatives passed a new bill which was prepared by the House Committee on Armed Services, concurred in by the Senate with minor amendments and enacted with the support of the Department of Defense to become Public Law 85-422. This law, as enacted, provided in effect a general pay increase of at least six per cent for all active duty personnel with more than two years' service, and, as already noted, extended this six per cent increase to all but the one category of personnel retired prior to 1 June 1958. Public Law 85-855, 28 August 1958, amended the Military Pay Act of 1 June 1958 and extended the six per cent increase to those retired with less than two years' service.

Pentagon Position Restudied

"The Department of Defense has restudied its earlier position on the recomputation of retired pay and after further consideration now believes it only equitable and fair to reestablish the traditional relationship between active duty pay and retired pay. The Department of Defense, therefore, recommends enactment of legislation to achieve these objectives as expressed in the attached substitute draft bill and believes the net result would be of significant value by increasing the morale, efficiency and effectiveness of our active duty career personnel as well as avoiding discrimination against retired personnel who served their country faithfully and well.

"If this legislation were enacted in time to become effective 1 February 1960, the increased cost for the last five months of Fiscal Year 1960 is estimated at $10,500,000. Funds to cover this increased cost were not included in the budget for Fiscal Year 1960 but it is believed that such cost could be absorbed within funds heretofore made available by the Congress.

Costs Reported

"Estimated increased costs for succeeding years are:

FY 1961	$24,470,000
FY 1962	23,980,000
FY 1963	23,500,000

"The Bureau of the Budget has advised that there is no objection to the submission of this report to the Congress and further that enactment of legislation along the lines of the proposed substitute draft bill is in accord with the President's program."

"Sincerely yours,
"THOMAS S. GATES"

Douglas Presents Gift To Library Of Congress

The Douglas Aircraft Company of Santa Monica, Calif., has presented approximately 158,000 feet of historical film to the Library of Congress for its motion-picture collection.

In token of the gift, Donald W. Douglas, Jr., President of the Douglas Aircraft Company, presented two Douglas-produced films to Librarian of Congress L. Quincy Mumford in the Librarian's Office on 17 December. The first, entitled "The Big Reach," deals with space exploration; the second, "Birth of a Jet," is a report on the new Douglas DC-8 Jetliner. Both are 1959 films.

The historical film, much of which relates to the Douglas Company's work during WWII, consists of documentary reports on aircraft development in the pre-1950 period and on production methods employed at the time. There are 29 complete sound-pictures, as well as miscellaneous footage, in the gift.

In making the presentation, Mr. Douglas said his company wished to dedicate to the public the rights in the film for educational and research purposes.

Ed Wallnau Is Host To The Services At Hotel Piccadilly's "Cadet Lounge"

WHEN an officer of the U. S. Armed Forces sets out for a trip to New York, there's a good chance he will be "staying with Ed Wallnau."

This means the visitor is headed for the Hotel Piccadilly at 227 West 45th St. For almost 30 years—23 at his present stand—Edward "Ed" Wallnau, Piccadilly Vice President, has played "host" to members of the Armed Forces when they visit New York. He numbers among his close personal friends many of the nation's top military officers, most of whom he has known since they first started coming to the hotel as cadets and midshipmen.

Topping the list is General of the Army Omar N. Bradley. He and Mrs. Bradley are pictured above during a visit with Ed at the Piccadilly. Ed recalls, with obvious pleasure, that when Maj. Gen. William Dean was welcomed to New York with a ticker parade after his release from a communist prison camp, he and Mrs. Dean made a beeline for Ed's hideout. Another close friend is General A. C. "Tony" McAuliffe, USA-Ret., now Vice President of American Cyanamid.

Ed's office—where he handles thousands of reservations for members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Coast Guard—is overflowing with autographed pictures, packed jowl to jowl, of plebes and grizzled war-veterans alike.

His tables and bookcases are crowded with books autographed by senior military leaders and with copies of Academy yearbooks dating from the first (1904) West Point volume.

Articles about Ed which have appeared in the Naval Academy Log and the Military Academy Pointer decorate the walls, together with framed letters from Service officers, cadets, midshipmen, and their families.

A Letter Signed "Mamie"

One letter, inked from a mother in Washington, D. C., tells how she found one of Ed's handkerchiefs in son "Johnny's" pocket when she was sending his suit to the cleaners. Returning the handkerchief, the writer thanked Ed and said she hoped to see him on her next visit to New York. The letter is signed "Mamie Eisenhower."

A tall, nervously-energetic man whose youthful enthusiasm and zest belie his greying hair, Ed Wallnau launched his unique career of catering to the needs of military people in 1931.

That year, as assistant manager in one of New York's famous, old hotels, he first began to come into contact with Annapolis and West Point first-classmen on holiday in the big city. Impressed by their quiet, good manners and gradually learning about their "tough" Academy regimens, he determined to provide them with a carefree base of operations away from the Hudson and the Severn.

Cadet Loan Service

Cadets and midshipmen found they could rely on Ed not only to assure their reservations but to help them with theatre tickets, transportation, night-club entertainment or any one of countless other needs. When their billfolds were flat, they often discovered that a Wallnau loan was not beyond the scope of Ed's burgeoning empire.

By 1937, when he joined the Piccadilly management, Ed had what almost amounted to his own Army and Navy. Where Ed went, they went, and the Piccadilly became the new New York "military headquarters."

Many of those from the first "Wallnau Brigade" are still coming back, and others from later and current Academy classes continue to bolster the list of "Ed's boys."

For example, recent visitors to the Piccadilly include Maj. Gen. William J. Verbeck, C.G. XIII Army Corps, Ft. Devens, Mass.; Brig. Gen. Felix Vidal, Air Force Deputy for Reserve Affairs; Maj. Gen. C. J. Bondley, Director, Supply and Services, Air Force Deputy CofS, Materiel, and Army Chief of Information, Maj. Gen. William W. Quinn, to name only a few.

Army Navy Air Force Journal 17
26 Dec. 1959 (Vol. 97, P. 461)

Ed recalls that he "knew Bill Quinn when he was on the USMA '33 football team."

Keeping track of his service friends is a big part of Ed's life. For years, he has clipped (mostly from THE JOURNAL) items about marriages, births, deaths and assignment changes, carefully filing them in the respective yearbook alongside the "cadet" or "midshipman's" picture.

West Point has made him promise to will his unique USMA record collection to the Academy.

Typical of the faith which members of the Armed Forces have come to repose in Ed is a recent request from Maj. Gen. D. H. Buchanan. On his way from Korea to a new assignment as Army Deputy Inspector General at the Pentagon, General Buchanan wrote to ask for a reservation beginning 6 December. He said there would not be time for a reply, so he would just check in at the Piccadilly in the hope that Ed had been able to fulfill his request. He need not have worried. Ed promptly reserved space for his old friend.

"They know they can depend on me," Ed told THE JOURNAL.

Another reason members of the Armed Forces made the Piccadilly their New York headquarters—in addition to their friendship for Ed and acknowledgment of the many services he provides—is that the hotel, as Ed says, "is in the middle of everything."

Only "a few steps off Times Square," the Piccadilly is in the center of New York's theatre district.

Theatrical celebrities crowd the hotel's cocktail lounge—Piccadilly Circus—where, Ed reports, "we serve the biggest Martinis and Manhattans in town."

In addition to the numerous other services Ed provides for his friends in the Armed Forces, he also obtains baby sitters for Service families.

The hotel allows pets because, Ed says, "Everyone in the Armed Forces has a pet."

Mrs. Conte Is Aide

Ed's "girl Friday," Mrs. Elsie Conte, has been with him for eight years. She enjoys the job, she told THE JOURNAL, because it is unlike the usual, run-of-the-mill hotel operation. "Everything we do in this office is done on a personal basis," Mrs. Conte said she likes the parade of top brass which passes in and out of the office.

Occasionally, Ed throws a party for the Military. A recent event was the cocktail party at which he entertained about 300 guests after the Army-Air Force football game.

THE JOURNAL itemized this event and Ed got clippings of the story from friends "all over the globe."

After 30 years in the business, Ed says: "When you make a friend in the Armed Forces, you make a real friend. Service people are the most appreciative people I know."

The warmth of this expression radiates in both directions. Members of the Armed Forces know that they have a "real friend" in Ed Wallnau, and when they go to New York, they "stay with Ed."

Top TAC Couples Greet Holiday

Grey Ladies Win Caps For Work At Shaw AFB

Mrs. D. W. Hutchinson, wife of Major General Hutchinson, Ninth Air Force Commander, presented pins to 11 Grey Ladies and three Staff Aides who were capped at recent ceremonies at Shaw AFB, S. C.

Presiding officers at the ceremony were Mrs. L. M. Wooley, Grey Ladies Chairman and Mrs. H. W. Powell, Staff Aides Chairman at Shaw.

Col. J. H. Price, Ninth AF CofS, delivered the graduation address.

Lt. Col. Bernice Deason, Chief of Nursing Services at the 837th Tactical Hospital, accepted the Grey Ladies for work at the Hospital.

Winning Grey Lady caps were: Jo Aaron, Mary Jane Flack, Maxine Guthrie, Joan Handel, Kamelle Hayes, Nell Hester, Virginia Komar, Renee Probst, Kittly Shanley, Kathryn Willis, and Clara Young.

Staff Aides capped were: Betty Watts, Polly Norris, and Virginia Sprott.

AF Weather Wives

OFFICER wives at Air Weather Service Headquarters, Scott AFB, Ill., had Mrs. Raymond J. Reeves (center), wife of Major General Reeves, Vice Commander of MATS, as guest of honor at a Christmas tea. Also greeting guests were Mrs. Norman L. Peterson (right), wife of Brigadier General Peterson, AWS Commander, and tea hostess Mrs. William W. Riser, wife of Col. W. W. Riser, AWS Deputy CofS for Materiel.

Jessie Landis, General's Wife, Gives Program

Jessie Royce Landis, stage, screen and television actress, gave the Christmas program for the Officers Wives' Club of Governors Island, N. Y.

The program was an original Christmas story performed by Miss Landis.

In private life, Miss Landis is the wife of Maj. Gen. J. F. R. Seitz, First Army CofS. They were married in Iran when General Seitz was heading the U. S. Mission there.

Marine Corps And Allied Van Lines Are Partners

MISS Jeanne Friedman, a Bronx high school student, Col. Henry D. Strunk, USMC, Deputy Director of the 1st Marine Corps Reserve and Recruitment District, and Mr. M. S. Park, Senior Vice Consul of the Korean Consulate in New York City prepare 4000 books for shipment via Allied Van Lines to San Francisco, while an Allied man loads a case of books aboard his van. The company was contacted by the Marine Corps and quickly agreed to transport the books from New York to San Francisco free of charge. The Pacific Far East Lines agreed to furnish cross-Pacific shipment of the books to Korea, without cost.

Christmas Fiesta Brightens Sandia Base

More than 300 Sandia Base, N. M., Woman's Club members and their husbands gathered 13 December for a "Christmas Fiesta."

Mrs. Stanley Cottage and Mrs. J. B. Sadilek were co-Chairmen.

Mrs. L. M. Ballinger was General Chairman of Punchbowls, which were presided over by women representing the branches of the Armed Forces stationed at Sandia and Manzano bases, the Atomic Energy Commission and Sandia Corp.

Air Force Chairman assisting her was Mrs. T. E. Holland. Mrs. Harry Balish represents the Army; Mrs. J. M. Ballinger, Navy and Marines; Mrs. B. F. Witsell, Manzano Base; Mrs. R. H. Shaw, AEC, and Mrs. S. P. Schwartz, Sandia Corp.

Pentagon Prepares New Rules For Household Goods Movements

From first page—
pate in the choice of van companies to move household goods.

THE JOURNAL issue of 12 December published the full text of a new Defense Department policy announcement establishing procedures for choice of household goods carriers.

The Secretary of the Army has been given responsibility for carrying out the new policy.

The forthcoming regulations are being drafted by: Cdr. Virgil Moffitt, USN; Maj. Donald Huff, USAF; Maj. George Hunt, USA, and Capt. Joseph Koubs, USMC.

The rules being drafted by the committee must be approved by each of the Service Secretaries. They will be published in a revision to chapter 217 of the Military Traffic Management Agency Regulation.

Defense Department officials have stated that the new policy on the shipment of household goods is effective immediately. Detailed implementation may be delayed, however, for as much as 90 days, pending the issuance of implementing instructions from the Services.

The new policy will affect all household goods shipped by military families within the U.S., and that shipped between the U.S. and overseas areas in through bill-of-lading service.

To assure a high quality of Service, the implementing instructions will levy mandatory penalties against "fringe" contractors, who have provided either unsatisfactory service or are guilty of deliberate unethical acts.

Military families will also be able to veto the selection of a mover on the basis of previous unsatisfactory performance.

Army Missilemen Brighten Children's Holiday In Italy

The holiday season gayer for more than 1,000 children in Northern Italy through the efforts of the 1st Missile Command at Vicenza.

Members of the command and their families brought gifts and treats to local orphanages, in an effort to show the children they are not forgotten during the holiday season.

Activities will continue through 6 Jan.

uary, the traditional day in Italy for the giving of gifts.

Over the past three years, Missile Command families have donated over $30,000 to the orphanages and other charities in the area.

A ONE-MONTH ARMY LIEUTENANT:L/G Shoup, An M/G In August, Will Take Four-Star Marine Post

LT. GEN. David M. Shoup, Marine Corps CofS, next week succeeds General Randolph McC. Pate, who retires after four years service as Commandant.

General Shoup, who won the Medal of Honor while a colonel commanding the 2d Marine Regiment, 2d Marine Division, at Betio during the Battle of Tarawa, was chosen for the Corps' top post by President Eisenhower on 12 August.

At the time he was named to be the Corps' 22d Commandant, General Shoup was serving in two-star rank as CG of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. The President chose General Shoup from a position junior to the entire slate of three-star officers and four two-star officers.

Originally, the President named General Pate's successor for a two-year term. After THE JOURNAL questioned the legality of a two-year nomination, the Senate Armed Services Committee appointed a special subcommittee to look into the matter. President Eisenhower subsequently withdrew the two-year nomination and re-nominated General Shoup for a four-year term.

General Shoup, who celebrates his 55th birthday 30 December, was born at Battle Ground, Ind. He is a 1926 graduate of DePauw University where he took the ROTC course and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Infantry Reserve. He transferred to the Marine Corps a month later.

During WWII, he served in Iceland, New Zealand, Tarawa, Guadalcanal, New Georgia and Tinian, before returning to the States as Logistics Officer, Division of Plans and Policies at Marine Headquarters.

Before being assigned to command Parris Island, General Shoup was Inspector General of the Marine Corps and commanded the 1st Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, and the Third Marine Division, Okinawa. He also has served as Marine Corps Fiscal Director.

The General is married to the former Zola DeHaven of Covington, Ind. They have a daughter, Carolyn, now Mrs. Joel S. Watkins, and a son, Robert.

U. S. COAST GUARD

Secretary of the Treasury—Robert B. Anderson
Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond

FOUR rear admirals will be retired 1 July 1960, including RAdm. Frank A. Leamy, 59, Superintendent of the U. S. Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.

The others are RAdm. Henry T. Jewell, 56, Chief of the Office of Merchant Marine Safety at USCG Headquarters; RAdm. William W. Kenner, 55, Commander of the 7th District of Miami; and RAdm. Henry C. Perkins, 55, Commander of the 3d District at New York.

These officers are being released under provisions of Title 14, U. S. Code, Chapter 247.

This provides that all admirals must be retired on 30 June of the Fiscal Year in which they either: reach seven years in permanent rank of admiral or complete 35 years of active commissioned service.

This legislation was passed to provide a flow of promotion opportunity for junior officers following a WWII buildup of flag officers. Each year Coast Guard Headquarters convenes an "attrition" board to review the records of officers in these categories. The Commandant can retain an officer if he believes such action is warranted.

Grand Central Wins Army Competition

The Army has notified Grand Central Rocket Company, Redlands, Calif., that it has won a competition to convert and operate the Kansas Ordnance Plant at Parsons to produce and load solid propellant motors for tactical missiles.

Maj. Gen. John W. Sessums, Jr., USAF-Ret., Chairman of the Grand Central Board of Directors, explained the Army announcement as follows:

"It is with considerable pride that Grand Central Rocket Co. accepts the great responsibility of operating the Army's Kansas Ordnance Plant at Parsons, Kansas. The confidence shown GCR in this award reflects the effort of the outstanding team our General Manager and Vice President, Dr. Cleo Brunetti, has assembled at Grand Central Rocket Co. The financial and managerial assistance given us by our parent companies, Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation and Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., played a large part in our winning this competition among the giants of the solid propellant industry."

Two Brigadiers Move

Brig. Gen. Morris O. Edwards, CofS, Alaskan Command, Elmendorf AFB, has been named Deputy Commandant of the NATO Defense College in Paris. His new assignment will be effective in late January.

Brig. Gen. Frederick G. Zierath, Deputy Commandant, Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, will succeed General Edwards.

Army Must Shuffle General Officers In '60 To Fill Retirement Vacancies

STATUTORY retirements in 1960 will mean a shuffle of Army general officers to fill top billets.

As reported on Page 1 of this issue, the Army faces the loss next year of the Commanders of the Army Air Defense Command, First Army, Second Army, and Seventh Army, as well as the Comptroller.

Lt. Gen. Charles E. Hart of ARADCOM is due for retirement in June. The First Army Commander, Lt. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, leaves active service in February, with Lt. Gen. George W. Read, Second Army Commander, slated for retirement in July.

The Seventh Army CG, Lt. Gen. Francis W. Farrell, and the Comptroller, Lt. Gen. William S. Lawton, attain the age of 60 in May, which normally means retirement.

Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, who will be succeeded by Maj. Gen. William Breckinridge, retires as head of the Army Security Agency in March.

Further analysis of the Army Register points to the prospective retirement of Maj. Gen. William S. Biddle, Deputy CG of the Fifth Army in Chicago, in October.

Also seen as likely to retire next year are Maj. Gen. Hobart Hewett, Deputy CinC of U. S. Army Europe; Maj. Gen. Charles L. Dasher, who commands U. S. Army Caribbean; and Maj. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, Provost Marshal General.

Two senior Medical Service officers will retire. They are Maj. Gen. William E. Shambora, Brooke Army Medical Center Commander, the second-ranking officer in the Medical Corps, who will be 60 in September, and Maj. Gen. James M. Epperly, the Army's Dental Chief.

A number of other major generals and lieutenant generals also can be expected to seek retirement.

When the results of a pending selection board to permanent two-star rank are made known, other retirements will be in prospect.

This is because of the fact that permanent brigadier generals who have 30 years service and 5 years in that grade retire unless chosen for permanent two-star rank.

The Army also anticipates that Lt. Gen. Samuel T. Williams, head of the MAAG in Saigon, Vietnam, may retire during 1960. He will be 63 next August, and has been extended on active duty beyond the statutory retirement age of 62.

Cobra Tested

THIS is the West German-developed Cobra anti-tank missile, described in last week's issue of THE JOURNAL, which is being introduced in this country by Daystrom Incorporated of Murray Hill, N. J. The Cobra is said to be capable of knocking out any tank in existence. The Marine Corps has initiated tests of the wire-guided weapon.

AF Slates 720 Warrant Promotions To Two Top Grades In FY '61

A big boost in warrant officer promotions—500 to W-3 and 220 to W-4—during Fiscal Year 1961.

The accelerated promotions result in part from the recognized pay overlap between the top two enlisted supergrades and the first two warrant officer grades.

Total quotas for FY '60 are 45 to W-4 and 225 to W-3.

The selection board scheduled for 7 June 1960 will select the quotas for 1960 not already used by permanent insignia change.

The same board will look at all W-2's and W-3's who will have completed four years' promotion service as of 30 June 1961, and will select the 500 W-3's and 220 W-4's (less FY '61 insignia changes).

Selectees for the 1960 quotas will be promoted on 30 June 1960, and the remainder will be promoted in seniority order on a phased schedule to begin late in calendar year 1960 or early in 1961.

Col. Cheever ReportsUSAA Policies For U. K.

Col. Charles E. Cheever, USA-Ret, President of United Services Automobile Association, San Antonio, has announced that the Association will begin writing automobile insurance for eligible members located in Great Britain beginning 1 January.

Arrangements have been made by the Association whereby it will be represented in Great Britain by the British firm of J. H. Minet and Company (Home), Ltd., with offices at 26 Grosvenor Street, London W-1.

Current or prospective of USAA who are now located in Great Britain and who desire to order USAA automobile insurance should contact J. H. Minet and Company (Home), Ltd., at the above address, where they will be issued a cover note as evidence of insurance coverage pending receipt of the formal USAA policy.

Members who may be assigned to a station in Great Britain in the future should contact the Association's Home Office in San Antonio for details prior to their departure.

This extension of geographical operations with regard to automobile insurance is the first undertaken by the Association since it extended coverage to Continental Europe in 1952, in answer to the many requests of its membership. Colonel Cheever said.

Capt. Russell At Fitzsimons

some 135,000 personnel. Of this 90,000 are in the Army, 22,500 in the Air Force, 18,000 in the Navy, and 4,500 in the Marine Corps.

Strong in will and intense in their training program, the Thailand forces have a pressing need for more modern equipment. Many of their weapons are so far outmoded that spare parts cannot be obtained to keep them up. In some instances the ammunition on hand is all that is available, so that it must be kept for emergencies.

Some new equipment is coming in. New Japanese trucks, for example, have taken their place beside the early 1940's models now being used. There are hopes of replacing the dependable, but old, Republic F84Gs with more modern jet aircraft.

Maj. Gen. Briard P. Johnson, USA, is Chief of the Joint U. S. Military Advisory Group here. An armored officer, General Johnson arrived last July and has been busily engaged in pushing the United States program of assistance to the progressive and valiant nation.

His Deputy Chief and Chief of Staff is Col. David B. Routh, USA.

Chief of the Army Element is Col. Roy E. Doran, Infantry. He gives advice and assistance and supervises the activities of the U. S. liaison officers who work with the Thai army down to the regimental level.

The Thai Army maintains its 3d Division in the northeast section of the coun-of the JUSMAG Navy section. Lt. Col. James P. Treadwell, USMC, assists in training involving the Marine Corps.

The Thai Navy has 73 ships, mostly for coastal work, although during the Korean war they sent two frigates to operate with the United Nations Command there. She has a patrol squadron of 11 torpedo boats, an antisubmarine squadron, three mine sweepers, and a number of amphibious ships. She also has two submarines which have not had batteries in them for years.

The Thai Navy has 42 flag officers, but many of these are on duty in the Defense Department and hold posts outside of the Navy.

The Navy provides all the meteorological services for the nation and also engages in hydrographic survey work.

The JUSMAG Air Force Section is under Col. Robert M. Levy, USAF, whose work with the Royal Thai Air Force since February of 1957 has given him an intense admiration and enthusiasm for the pilots and airmen of the RTAF whose pilot's insignia he wears proudly.

The RTAF has some 170 North American T6 "Texan" trainers. Though long since phased out in the U. S. Air Force, the T6s are doing valiant work for the Thai force. Lockheed T33s and RT33s are in their jet inventory as are about 25 Republic F84Gs. Some Grumman F8Fs, a few helicopters, and 22 Douglas C47s also are on duty with the forces.

The RTAF has three fields with 10,000-foot runways and a number of strips capable of handling the propeller-type aircraft. Two Link C11B trainers assist in developing their skills.

Colonel Levy conducted the CINCPAC Press Group through the Thai air facilities at Don Muang where the RTAF maintains its headquarters and much of its aircraft. Assisting Colonel Levy in the tour was Major Samran, commander of the F-84 Squadron. Major Samran has nearly 1,000 hours in jet aircraft. Many of his pilots have 400 or more hours.

The CINCPAC Press Group also journeyed to Fort Suranari in the Korat area northeast of Bangkok, headquarters of the Second Army Area. The Fort was named after Thao Suranari, a native woman who led the defensive force of women and old men of Korat in a successful battle against King Anu of Laos who invaded Korat during the absence of the governor and able-bodied men.

Inspections were made of the Ordnance work shops, the Signal repair and supply room, the Artillery gun park, the motor pool, and Infantry training in the field.

CINCPAC Press Tour Provides Chance For Visit With Vietnam Units

French regime is the lack of specialists. The French did not train the Vietnamese as specialists, but used them as separate companies or battalions attached to French units. The problem which the Vietnamese have been working to overcome, therefore, is to train specialists and to give officers command capabilities in the higher grades. This they appear to be doing well. Many of their officers have attended basic and advanced schools in the States, while they have organized schools here to teach others. Yet they have wisely restrained from being overly free with rank, so that they have proportionately few officers in higher field or general officer grades.

Despite its military mission, the Vietnamese armed forces contribute substantially to the economic development of their country. They are engaged in building roads, bridges, and canals. This type of work helps their engineer forces develop their military proficiency and at the same time gives their soldiers skills and technical knowledge which will be of considerable help to them and their nation when they return to civil life.

Since the Republic was formed the new government has successfully defeated the various sects that fought against them and have made the work of the communist subversives increasingly difficult and unproductive. But it is estimated that there are still some 2,000 communists, about half of which are armed, prowling through the countryside, killing and kidnapping, and trying hard to undermine confidence of villagers and rural people against the Republican regime.

The Vietnamese forces deal vigorously with these subversives when they are apprehended. If they are caught in the act they are executed. Otherwise they are brought before courts which give them fair trials. Those convicted are given sentences ranging from terms in jail to susceptible of rehabilitation they are given the opportunity to take up land and become citizens, and many have thus been returned to the ranks of good countrymen.

Members of the CINCPAC Press Tour visiting here were given ample opportunity to view at first hand the training of the Vietnamese units.

One interesting visit was to their Airborne Brigade in the Tan Son Nhut region. Led by Maj. Nguyen-Quoc-Tuan, brigade commander, the visiting newsmen were shown Vietnamese paratroopers in various stages of training.

Maj. Richard Boland, USA, the MAAG liaison officer with the Brigade, was enthusiastic about the efficiency and high morale of the jumpers. The Vietnamese people are rather small and light, so that using standard U. S. parachutes, they fall more slowly and do not hit the ground as hard as do the heavier U. S. soldiers. In fact, their injury rate from mass jumps is substantially less than in our Army.

Major Boland, who jumps with the brigade whenever they have training exercises, told THE JOURNAL reporter he often is the last one out of the airplane and yet the first one to hit the ground.

During the active fighting there were many women soldiers jumping with the brigade. Today there are none as actual combat soldiers but a number have been retained as parachute packers, at which they are particularly adept, and these must make regular jumps in order to retain their status as packers. In addition there are female nurses and medical specialists who jump regularly with the unit.

All the jumps are from Douglas C-47s operated by the Vietnamese air force.

The press group also visited the Bien Hoa Air Base where they inspected the 1st Fighter Squadron and its maintenance facilities, the Thu Duc School Center, the 601st Ordnance Battalion, the 11th Quartermaster Depot, the Quartermaster Clothing Production Center, the Navy Shipyard, and the 101st Ordnance Rebuild Battalion.

Purdue University Program Prepares Retired Officers For Second Career

A GROWING program for retired officers of the Armed Forces who are seeking college teaching careers is underway at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

In all, 67 officers have been enrolled, and 43 have been graduated. There are 20 in the current class.

As a result of the critical shortage of college teachers, Purdue is pushing the idea that retired members of the Armed Services offer a partial solution.

The University has specially designed a program to meet the needs of retired officers, taking into consideration their previous training and experience.

The program, originally headed by Dr. M. W. Keller, currently is being directed by Dr. Aubrey H. Smith. It prepares qualified retired Armed Services personnel to teach basic undergraduate collegiate mathematics and is now in its fourth year.

The program consists of an 8-week review session devoted to a thorough review of algebra, trigonometry and analytical geometry. This is followed by two semesters and a summer session which include work in calculus, advanced calculus, differential equations, real and complex variables, advanced algebra, advanced geometry, statistics, teaching methods and psychology.

Those completing the program and fulfilling the requirements of the Graduate School receive the degree of Master of Science. An interesting feature is the completion of the program in a little over a year, a period shorter than that normally required for the work of a master's degree, for those who are not recent graduates.

Most of the 43 graduates of the first three classes are now teaching. Two others who completed a major part of the program, also are teaching, and it is expected that two more members of the second and third classes will receive their degrees.

Doctor Smith reports that the program is not easy, for it deals with several fields of mathematics in considerable depth, and the main emphasis is on subject matter rather than teaching technique. "But if a man has been a reasonably good mathematics student in the past, and is willing to devote plenty of hard work to the program, he should be successful," he says.

"The assumption that many retired officers would make good mathematics teachers seems to have been borne out," he adds. Many placement opportunities exist, since qualified teachers are in great demand. Those starting their teaching last September did so at an average salary of $5600 for the academic year of nine months.

Graduates of last year's class were placed as follows: Lt. Col. George E. Adams, USA-Ret., Purdue; Cdr. Matthew DeMaria, USN-Ret., Holton Arms School and Junior College, Washington, D. C.; RADM, Thomas J. Flynn, USN-Ret., California State Polytechnic College; Lt. (jg)

James R. Gayle, USN-Ret., Bakersfield College, Calif; Capt. Wilbur C. Hogan, USCG-Ret., California State Polytechnic College; Col. John J. Holst, USA-Ret., Purdue; Lt. John A. Jacobsen, USN-Ret., University of Georgia.

Also Col. Wayland H. Parr, USA-Ret., Stetson University, DeLand, Fla.; Col. Ben Francis Prewitt, USMC-Ret., Memphis State University, Tenn.; Capt. Ronald K. Smith, USN-Ret., San Benito Junior College, Hollister, Calif.; RADM, Charles L. Strain, USN-Ret., Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.; RADM, Willard M. Sweetser, USN-Ret., LaSalle College, Philadelphia.

Plans have been made to start a fifth class in 1960. The review session will begin 18 July and end 9 September; the first semester will begin 14 September and the second summer session will end on 11 August 1961.

Housing conditions in the Lafayette area are tight, but are somewhat alleviated by university housing. Purdue has accommodations for single male graduate students and has family housing units of one and two bedrooms.

Doctor Smith reports that a second career of college teaching has many advantages for the retired officer. Most colleges are covered by social security, group insurance and other benefits. The typical academic year gives time for an extended summer vacation. Teaching affords the retired officer a means of appreciably supplementing retirement allowances. "Above all, it offers not only pleasant work in a college community with its cultural and social advantages and agreeable surroundings; but also the opportunity to be useful in a challenging profession," he says.

Purdue's program is known as the Retired Armed Services Training Program. Information and application forms can be obtained from Doctor Smith, Department of Mathematics and Statistics, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

Col. Leon Booth, USAF-Ret., a veteran Air Force public information officer retired on 30 June, is associated with the Aircraft Nuclear Propulsion Department of the General Electric Company in Cincinnati, Ohio. Colonel Booth is supervisor of Public Information.

Prior to retirement Colonel Booth was Special Assistant to the Deputy CofS, Development, at USAF Headquarters. Prior to that time, he served as Assistant Director of Information Services in the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force. Other assignments included a tour with the Public Information Division in the Department of Defense, as well as Director of Public Information for the Air Research and Development Command, the Tactical Air Command and the U. S. Air Forces in Europe.

Col. Hamilton R. Young, Post Dental Surgeon and Commanding Officer of the Sixth Army Support Element, Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., has retired after more than 30 years' service.

EIGHTEEN retired officers are enrolled in Purdue University's special program to prepare as teachers of basic undergraduate collegiate mathematics. Shown here with Dr. A. H. Smith, Director of the program, and Mr. Stuart A. Goldman, are, left to right (front row) RADM, Lamar P. Carver, USN, CWO Woodrow W. Judkins, USN, Capt. Walter F. Prien, USN, RADM, Nolan M. Kindell, USN, Doctor Smith, Capt. Albert Konigsberg, USN, and Maj. Thomas L. Kirkpatrick, USA; (second row) Col. Carlton J. Cook, USA, Mr. Goldman, Cdr. Warren J. Davis, USN, Cdr. C. F. Pinkerton, USN, LCol. Don A. Pomeroy, Jr., USA, and Cdr. Jesse W. McCoy, USN; (third row) Cdr. Louis H. Hird, USN, Lt. Col. Mylo L. Heen, USA, Cdr. Fred Wexel, USN and Cdr. John P. Kilroy, USN; (back row) LCdr. Rowland C. Anderson, USNR, Lt. (jg) H. Fred Hassenplug, USN, Capt. Earl A. Junghans, USN and Capt. Gene Collison, USN. Not present when the picture was taken was RADM, J. Frank Harper, USN.

England AFB Wives Adopt Hospital Ward

The Wives Club of the 622d Air Refueling Squadron at England AFB, La., adopted one ward of the Central Louisiana Hospital in Pineville.

The members have set up a schedule of regularly sponsoring parties at the ward. As many of the members as can be free on the scheduled day make the trip to the hospital and bring gifts and prizes to the patients.

Marine Uniform Board Explains Wear Of Mess Dress; Moves Medals; EM Changes

The Marine Corps' Uniform Board is preparing clarifying regulations governing wear of Mess Dress uniforms, positioning of miniature medals, a new uniform for sergeants major and use of metal rank insignia by enlisted men.

MESS DRESS UNIFORMS—Uniforms "A" and "B" have been abolished. The bat wing collar, stiff bosom shirt and white waistcoat are no longer worn with mess dress. The stiff bosom shirt and white waistcoat still are required items for wear with evening dress; the bat wing collar, however, is no longer required. Officers have the option of wearing either black mess dress trousers or standard civilian black tuxedo trousers. In addition, evening dress trousers may be prescribed for wear with the mess dress uniform at the discretion of commanding officers.

MINIATURE MEDALS—The Board notes that much-decorated officers may experience difficulty placing their medals on the lapel of the mess dress jacket. The problem is that officers with nine or more miniature medals cannot place them on the lapel neatly because the holding bar sticks out past the edge of the lapel. To alleviate this problem the requirement that they be placed 1 1/4" below the notched lapel has been changed so they may be worn 1" below the notch. This eases the problem to some extent since the lapel tapers inward.

SERGEANTS MAJOR UNIFORM—Sergeants Major are authorized to wear Winter and Summer Service uniforms of officer-type fabrics on all types of duty, including formations. If officer-style garb is worn, sergeants major are required to wear commercial type shoes of the standard dark brown shade without ornamental stitching. The pending changes to Uniform Regulations also will state that sergeants major who exercise the option to maintain Summer and Winter Service uniforms made of officer-type fabrics will not be required to have the Winter wool or the Summer cotton khaki uniforms prescribed on the minimum clothing list. Plain Black shoes are authorized for when the blue uniform is worn on leave, liberty or on social occasions.

METAL RANK INSIGNIA—Since newly designed metal rank insignia for the new enlisted rank structure will not be available until next Spring, enlisted men and women administratively placed within the new structure will wear the insignia of their equivalent pay-grade under the old structure. For example, a lance corporal (E-3) wears the metal insignia of an acting corporal (E-3) and a gunnery sergeant (E-7) wears the insignia of an acting master sergeant (E-7). Since there are no equivalent ranks for the new pay-grades of master sergeant (E-8) and master gunnery sergeant (E-9), men in these ranks are required to wear the insignia of an acting master sergeant (E-7).

TRI-SERVICE CHAPLAIN

Chaplain (Capt.) LeRoy Van Verth, USA, newly appointed chaplain of the 38th Street Chapel at Ft. Lee, Va., has had duty with three Services in his military career.

He served as a yeoman in the Navy in 1945-46, after which he received his Bachelor of Divinity degree. He was commissioned in the Navy in 1953, serving two years when he left to become a minister in Kansas. He returned to active duty in 1957 and was assigned to the Second Marine Division at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and spent several months with an Infantry battalion in Lebanon during the crisis there.

Chaplain Van Verth transferred to the Army in June. His wife, Nina, and their three children reside in Petersburg, Va.

Eglin B-57's Will Launch Jaguar Radiation Rockets

Jaguar rockets designed for 500-mile altitudes will be fired from B-57s at the Air Proving Ground Center, Eglin AFB, Fla., beginning next month.

The three-stage, 29-foot-long solid propellant Jaguars with a 35-pound instrumented payload in their 15-inch width will measure the natural radiation surrounding the earth.

They will be fired from twin-jet B-57 bombers during a maneuver in which the bomber climbs sharply from 30,000 feet.

By using the B-57 as a launching platform, the Jaguar sounding rocket system, which weighs 1700 pounds, eliminates the need for ground-based launching pads.

Two versions—the Jaguar II and the Jaguar III—will be tested over the Eglin Gulf Test Range. The Jaguar III has an altitude capability of about 600 miles as compared with the approximately 500-mile height limit of the Jaguar II.

Both models coast upward from an altitude of about 28 miles, which is the point where burnout of their third stages occur.

Col. Lawson Commended

Col. George A. Lawson, Deputy CofS, Comptroller for the Air Proving Ground Center, has received the Air Force Commendation Medal from Maj. Gen. Joe W. Kelly, Commander, at Eglin AFB, Fla. Colonel Lawson was honored for service at Offutt AFB, Neb., as acting Comptroller and Deputy Comptroller at SAC Headquarters.

Marine Corps Offers SWAG And EAD Tours In Aviation Reserve Program

THE Marine Corps is accepting applications for Active Duty Agreements (SWAG) and Extended Active Duty (EAD) from Reservists for duty in the Aviation Reserve Program.

Eligible to apply are officers as shown in the following table, with expiration dates determined by the individual's Lineal No. as listed in the Combined Lineal List of 1 January 1959. The table also shows the maximum and minimum number of years for which an officer is eligible if selected.

For SWAG or EAD Ending No Later Than

Lt. Col.	Maj.	Capt.	Lt.
30 June 65		1—380*	All
30 June 61	1—639	381—531	Eligible
30 June 61	640—797	532—1348	Regardless

30 June 65	1183—& Junior		Grade

*Must be on a promotion list and eligible only to fill a vacancy for a Reservist on active duty in the next higher grade.

Eligible only to fill vacancy in next higher grade.

#Officers picked for promotion will be eligible for SWAG or EAD for periods up to five years in the rank of Lt. Col.

%No officer shown in the grade of Capt. is eligible for SWAG or EAD ending later than 30 June '64.

Applications must reach Headquarters, addressed to the Commandant (Code AFS), no later than 15 January '60. Particularly desired are requests from captains holding pilot's ratings, and from all officers with electronics and personnel administration skills.

Caterpillar Officials Brief Bailey Bridge Designer

SIR Donald Coleman Bailey, left, Director of Great Britain's Military Engineering Experimental Establishment, is shown here conferring with W. Blackie (standing), Executive Vice President, and Harmon S. Eberhard, President, Caterpillar Tractor Company. The British official recently visited the research facilities of the company's Peoria, Ill., Plant, where Caterpillar is working in the development of numerous military contracts.

Sir Donald is well-known in military circles for his ability to apply advanced engineering concepts to military uses. He developed the Bailey bridge, which became famous in WWII for its battle-zone portability, and is now used frequently on civilian construction projects.

Douglas Completes IRBM Thor Training

Operation of the Nation's first Ballistic Missile Training School has ended at Tucson, Ariz., after 19 months with graduation of the last class of Thor Missiles.

Since the school first opened in May 1958 a total of 1,863 Royal Air Force and USAF officers and enlisted men have received concentrated training here in air frame and ground support equipment systems of the Thor Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile.

The Training School, conducted by the Douglas Aircraft Company under contract to the USAF Air Training Command, was a part of the largest Anglo-American Training Program since World War II.

With phasing out of the Tucson operation, responsibility for training additional Thor classes has been assigned to the Technical Training Center, Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Final Class at Tucson consisted of nine RAF personnel, headed by Squadron Leader P. J. Crowley. Certificates of graduation were presented to the Trainees by Bryan G. Smith, Douglas Supervisor of Training at Tucson.

Fifteen different courses of instruction, lasting from two to 10 weeks, were provided at Tucson. Largest enrollment during any single period was 283 Trainees.

Civilian Contractor Schools which provided training in other phases of the Thor Weapon System also are being phased out. Thor Guidance Training, performed by AC Spark Plug in Milwaukee, will be accomplished at Sheppard and Propulsion Training, a Rocketdyne responsibility in Van Nuys, will be shifted to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

All Thor Trainees completed their courses of instruction with integrated weapon system training at Vandenberg AFB, Calif. Selected classes conducted the countdowns and launched the huge missiles from the Pacific Base.

1960 Military Legislative Forecast

Dean of the Navy PG School.

- Legislation authorizing the appointment of Lt. Gen. Robert W. Colglazier, Jr., and Maj. Gen. Philip Lindeman to the permanent grades of colonel and brigadier general, respectively, in the Regular Army. General Colglazier is Deputy CofS for Logistics. General Lindeman is on duty in Germany.

- Authority to transfer Lt. Col. Francis E. Resta from the Regular Army retired list to the disability retired list.

- Representative Clyde Doyle's (D-Calif) bill to correct military records by board-consideration of post-Service conduct.

In addition to "White Charger," only one Senate-passed bill of any significance is before the House Armed Services Committee. It would authorize the promotion of Capt. Edward J. Steichen, USNR-Ret., to the grade of rear admiral on the Naval Reserve retired list.

Other Areas Of Interest

Congress also will be concerned with numerous other military problems which annually run the legislative obstacle course. These include major construction programs (for which both authorization and appropriations bills must be approved), and hundreds of measures sponsored by individual members of the House and Senate without Defense Department or Administration backing.

Topping the entire legislative calendar, not only in the military field but in the overall program of the Nation, will be the $41 billion Defense Department budget request.

As has been the practice during the past several sessions of Congress, the Appropriations groups in both Houses will attack or praise—more likely the former—such vital programs as proficiency flying pay, permanent changes of station, family medical care, housing, commissaries and post exchanges, promotion policies, travel, the ratio of officers to enlisted personnel, hospitals, and retirement costs.

In like manner, the Congressional pursestring-holders will criticize or pat the Services on the back for their major procurement programs. Some missile systems will be shot down and others sent soaring. Some aircraft plans will be approved or boosted while others will be chopped down or eliminated. Some ship-construction hopes will be sunk and others granted straight-course charts.

HEAVY TAKE-OFF

A Boeing B-52G, tipping the scales at nearly half a million pounds, recently took off on a flight from McConnell AFB, Kans. to test increased load-carrying capabilities of the new missile bomber.

The take-off weight of 448,000 pounds exceeded by approximately 40,000 pounds SAC's current B-52G gross weight limit. Boeing officials said the flight was another demonstration of the B-52's growth potential.

Sonobuoy Buy Reported By Navy

The Navy has awarded contracts totaling more than $13 million to six electronic firms for procurement of sonobuoys, electronic submarine detecting systems used in anti-submarine warfare.

They are packaged in cylindrical tubes and launched from Navy aircraft over an area in which a submarine is suspected of operating. Floating on the water, the sonobuoy picks up the submarine sounds and transmits them to the aircraft.

The firms and amounts of the contracts awarded follow:

Hazeltine Corporation, Little Neck, N. Y., $4,282,880.

General Electric Company, Utica, N. Y., $3,335,533.

Motorola Communications and Electronics Incorporated, Chicago, Ill., $2,337,225.

Sanders Associates, Nashua, N. H., $1,311,482.

Hoffman Electronics, Los Angeles, Calif., $1,281,125.

Cdr. Bailey Joins Page Communications In Capital

Cdr. Loren A. Bailey, USNR, has joined Page Communications Engineers, Washington, D. C., as a Senior Staff Engineer.

An electronics officer during WW II and Korea, Commander Bailey came to Page from AT&T, where he had charge of laying the Alaskan submarine telephone cables and assisted in laying the first trans-Atlantic telephone cable, the first trans-Pacific cables to Hawaii, and the cable between Cape Canaveral and Puerto Rico.

Oliver Kelley Gets GM Defense Post

Vice President Harold R. Boyer of General Motors and General Manager of the Defense Systems Division has appointed Oliver K. Kelley as his Technical Assistant.

Mr. Kelley, who has been Chief Engineer of the Buick Motor Division at Flint, Mich., since 1957, joins a recently created activity under the jurisdiction of GM Executive Vice President Sherrod E. Skinner. Located at the General Motors Technical Center near Detroit and composed mainly of scientific and engineering personnel, the Division engages in research and experimentation aimed toward the design and development of weapons systems and related activities.

In announcing formation of the Division last month, President John F. Gordon of General Motors said that "in expanding the scope of the Corporation's research, which up to this time has been directed primarily to the areas related to transportation, it is expected through cooperation with the Department of Defense and other contractors engaged in defense activities that the Corporation will increase its contribution to the national defense effort."

Grumman Receives New "Tracer" Award

Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation of Bethpage, N. Y., has received a $26.3 million Bureau of Naval Weapons contract to produce additional WF-2 Tracers, the Navy's first carrier-based, early-warning aircraft.

The WF-2, the first carrier-based aircraft employing a highly sophisticated radar and data reduction system, is an all-weather aircraft. Long-range radar is housed in a saucer-like radome carried above the plane's fuselage. The radome is the largest ever attached to a carrier-based aircraft.

Basically a modification of the S2F Tracker and TF-1 Trader series, the WF-2 has a 72-foot, 4-inch wing-span, is 45 feet, 4 inches long, and weighs 21,024 pounds empty. It is powered by two R-1820-82A Wright engines.

The Tracer has already passed its BIS (Board of Inspection and Survey) and FIP (Fleet Indoctrination Program) Trials. The Tracer has been provisionally accepted by the Navy and is expected to be delivered to fleet units soon.

They Will Handle Money Bills

FIFTEEN Senators, 16 Representatives and 10 skilled staff members will be largely responsible for the fate of Defense Department money bills in the new session of the 86th Congress.

The 15-member Senate Military Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Senator Dennis Chavez (D-NM), also has three ex-officio members assigned from the Armed Services Committee. The staff, headed by Mr. Francis S. Hewitt, includes Mr. Vorley M. Rexroad, Leonard E. Edwards and Maurice P. Pujol.

The House Military Appropriations Subcommittee, Chairmanned by Representative George H. Mahon (D-Tex), will have only 15 members as the session opens. One vacancy, created by the death of Representative Charles A. Doyle (D-Ill), will have to be filled.

Staff Assistants for the House group are headed by Mr. Samuel W. Crosby and include Mr. Frank Sanders, Mr. Robert L. Michaels, Mr. Ralph Preston, Mr. Kelly Campbell and Mr. Aubrey A. Gunnels.

Here is the complete run-down of members of both Committees:

MATS And STRAC Team In Spring; Puerto Rico Airlift Will Test Rapid Deployment

COMBINED Army-Air Force training exercise to test the mobility of the Strategic Army Corps and the Military Air Transport Service capabilities will be conducted next March.

The joint Army-Air Force training exercise, called BIG SLAM/PUERTO PINE, will involve the movement of Army troops and equipment to Puerto Rico and return.

The Pentagon said the exercise will test the ability of MATS' strategic airlift force to reach and maintain a high operational rate of airlift for the 15-day period of the exercise. In addition, the Air Force portion will test MATS ability to rapidly and efficiently airlift STRAC, the Army's mobile striking forces.

MATS regularly scheduled service will be maintained throughout the exercise. Commercial augmentation will be contracted for to replace that portion of MATS assigned to the exercise.

The Army action will test the air mobility of STRAC and its ability to go directly into operations after landing.

The exercise will include STRAC's Hqs. XVIII Airborne Corps and Corps Artillery, Ft. Bragg, N. C.; the 82d Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg, N. C.; 101st Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell, Ky.; 4th Infantry Division, Ft. Lewis, Wash.; 2d Infantry Brigade, Ft. Devens, Mass.; 1st Logistical Command, Ft. Bragg; and support troops.

The exercise in March will consist of three stages.

The first stage will be the deployment of about 18,000 Army troops and 12,000 tons of Army equipment by MATS to Puerto Rico.

Strategic airlift forces from MATS Eastern and Western transport air forces will begin the initial phases by flying Army Troops and combat equipment from Ft. Campbell; Ft. Lewis; Ft. Bragg; Ft. Benning, Ga.; Ft. Jackson, S. C.; Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.; Ft. Gordon, Ga.; Ft. Devens; Ft. Lee, Va.; Ft. Eustis, Va.; Ft. Stewart, Ga.; Ft. Holabird, Md.; Ft. Belvoir, Va.; Ft. Dix, N. J.; Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.; Ft. Hood, Tex.; Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; Walter Reed Army Medical Center; Valley Forge Army Hospital; Brooke Army Medical Center; U. S. Army Ordnance Arsenal, Redstone Arsenal, Ala., and Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

In the second phase Army forces will prepare for tactical movement to a forward area. The third stage will consist of troops and equipment being airlifted to home stations in the United States.

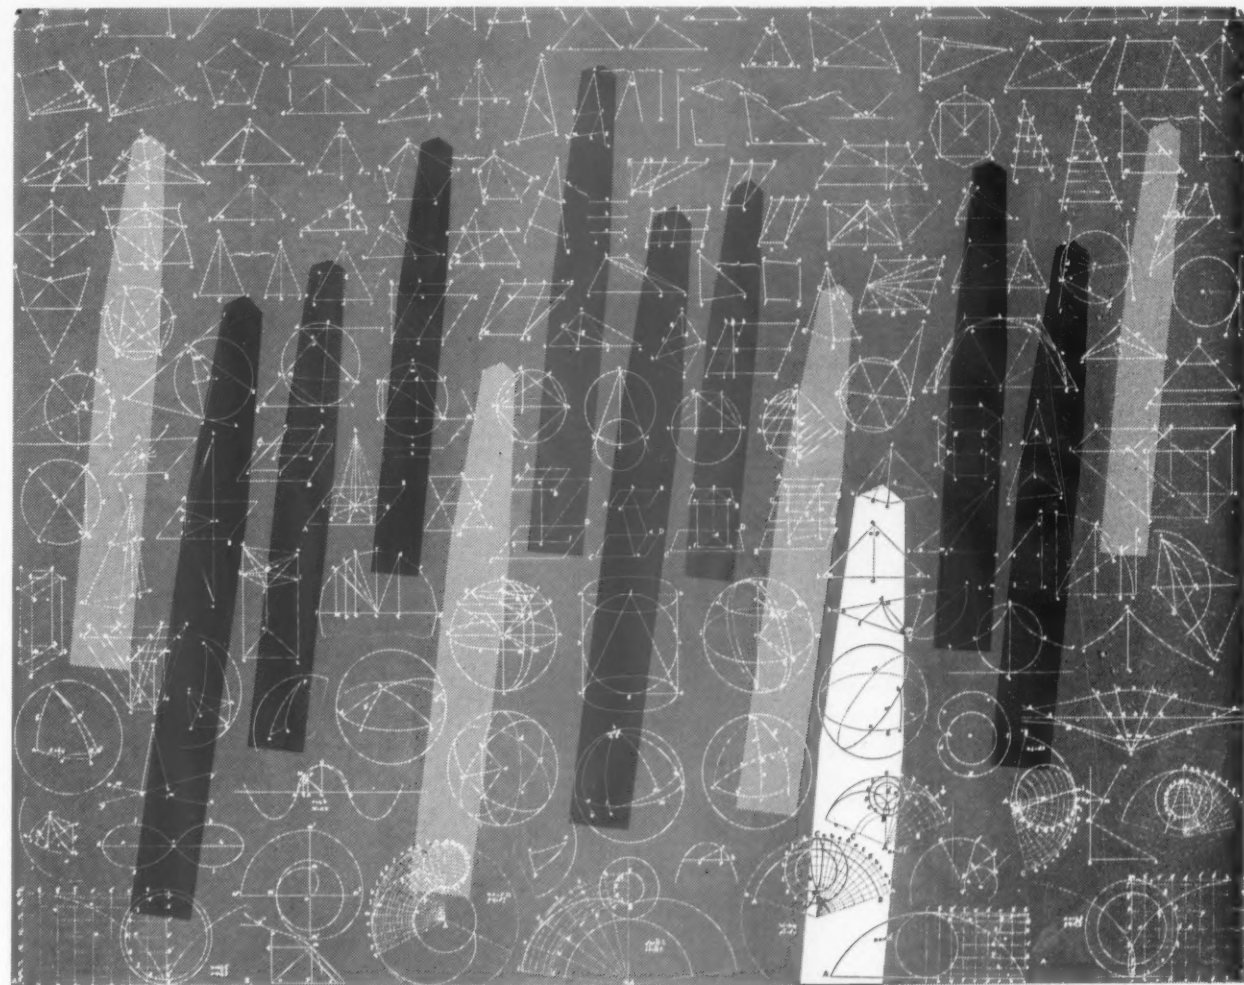

Exercise BIG SLAM/PUERTO PINE will involve all three military services, with Ramey AFB and Roosevelt Roads Naval Station used as off-load bases.

Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, MATS Commander, is Exercise Director for the MATS phase of the operation.

General Bruce C. Clarke, CG, USCON-ARC, has designated Maj. Gen. Hugh P. Harris, CONARC Deputy CofS for Operations, Plans and Training, as Deputy Director for Army.

Maj. Gen. Raymond J. Reeves, Vice Commander and Chief of Staff, MATS, is Deputy Director for Air Force.

Lt. Gen. Robert F. Sink, STRAC Commander, will be in command of all U. S. Army troops participating in the exercise.

Space veteran at the age of two

The Air Force THOR, built by Douglas and three associate prime contractors, shows how well a down-to-earth approach to outer space can work. Since its first shoot early in 1957, it has had more than forty successful launchings...at a variety of jobs from re-entry vehicle testing at ICBM ranges to placing satellites in orbit. Initial planning for THOR included volume production tooling, ground handling equipment and operational systems. This typical Douglas approach made the giant IRBM available in quantity in record time, and THOR has performed with such reliability that it has truly become the workhorse of the space age. The company's wide experience in producing large aircraft and rocket systems has provided it with unmatched capabilities in the missile and space fields.

SAC Crews Meet Air Alert Challenge

necessary training and procurement.

General Power referred to reports he has received from Brig. Gen. T. C. Bedwell, Jr., SAC Surgeon.

SAC surgeons have been making flights with crews being deployed on Airborne Alert indoctrination missions and have conducted what General Bedwell described as "exhaustive medical tests during and after the flights."

General Bedwell has advised General Power that the B-52 crews show excellent physiological reactions to the unusually long flights.

"Our crews have demonstrated rapid adaptability to this type and length of mission," the SAC Surgeon said. He added that excusal from duty because of illness "has reached an all-time low."

In the forthcoming session of Congress, General Power is certain to be questioned concerning the capability of SAC crews to carry out 24-hour missions. Possibly, General Bedwell will be called upon to give a comprehensive report on the medical aspects of the Airborne Alert tests.

In making such a report, General Bedwell would reiterate his report to General Power that Airborne Alert indoctrination "can be carried out successfully for an indefinite period without any detrimental effects to the health of the crews or a decrease in performance and that crewmen participating had displayed enthusiasm for the operation."

SAC officials have pointed out that under an Airborne Alert, flying hours for many combat crews will be increased from 30 to 120 hours per month. However, the Airborne Alert would permit a reduction in the number of hours in which crews are now on "ground alert" status.

Maj. Pomerantz Chosen Acting Scientific Director

Maj. Reuben Pomerantz, USMA '46, has been named Acting Scientific Director for Research and Development at the Army Quartermaster Research & Engineering Center Laboratories, Natick, Mass.

He, and Mrs. Pomerantz, the former Harriet S. Shapiro of Newburgh, N. Y., reside at 11 Sandra Drive, Framingham, Mass., with their daughter, Debra Lynn, age 2.

54 Members Of Congress Will Control Service Military Legislation In New Session

Responsibility for all major military legislation in the coming session of the 86th Congress will be vested largely in 17 Senators and 37 Representatives, who compose the Armed Services Committees of the two Houses.

Chairman of the Senate Committee is Senator Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), who is beginning his 28th year of service in the U. S. Senate, where he is the second-ranking member. His Committee staff includes William H. Darden, T. Edward Braswell, Jr., Gordon A. Nease, Harry L. Wingate, Jr., Herbert S. Atkinson, Maurine Dantzic, Edna E. Johnson, Mary Welker and DeEstye Graumann.

The House Committee is headed by Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), who, like his Senate colleague, is the second-ranking member of his House. "Uncle Carl," as he is affectionately known, begins his 46th year of service in the House of Representatives. His Committee staff, headed by Chief Counsel Robert W. Smart, includes John R. Blandford, Philip W. Keller, Frank M. Slatinshek, Oneta L. Stockstill, Berniece Kallinowski, L. Louise Ellis, Marie M. Abbott, Jane Binger and James A. Deakins.

Rep. (Cdr.) Stratton Wins Reserve Award

CDR. Samuel S. Stratton, USNR, receives the annual award of the Third Naval District Reserve Intelligence Division 3-1 from VADM. Thomas S. Combs (left) Third ND Commandant. Representative Stratton (D-NY), a member of the House Armed Services Committee, received the honor as the Reserve intelligence officer in the Third Naval District "who has contributed the most to national defense, over and beyond the services expected of a Reserve officer." The presentation was made at the annual banquet of Division 3-1 held at the Metropolitan Club, New York City.

SAC Communications Unit Will Reorganize

The 30th Communications Squadron at Offutt AFB, Nebr., will be reorganized as the 1st Communications Group in February, with three squadrons.

They will be the 30th, 31st and 32nd Communications Squadrons, with detachments at Elkhorn and Hooper, Nebr.

Lt. Col. John T. Tyler, head of the existing squadron, will command the new group. Maj. John C. Kaliher will become Deputy Commander, and Maj. George B. Smallfield, Operations Officer.

Squadron commanders will be Capt. Howard S. Weber, 30th; Capt. Robert W. Hoyle, 31st, and Capt. Neal Milner, 32d.

Doolittle Raid Veteran Gets Squadron At Ramey

Maj. Chase Nielsen, one of the survivors of the WWII Doolittle Raid on Tokyo, has been named Commander of the Aircraft Support Squadron at Ramey AFB, P. R. He had served as Chief of the Individual Training Division for the 72d Bomb Wing there.

Married to the former Cleo R. McCrary of Ogden, Utah, Major Nielsen has three children, Terry, 12; Gregory, 8, and Sherrie, 10 months.

Pedigree of a Hound Dog

The guidance and control system of America's HOUND DOG missiles—best of breed—has a pedigree 13 years long. Created by Autonetics, the HOUND DOG's inertial autonavigation system sends this supersonic air-to-surface missile from mother-ship to target anywhere in the world, in any weather. Equipped with an invulnerable sense, HOUND DOG extends the retaliatory effectiveness of SAC's B-52c bombers by hundreds of miles.

Against a 13-year background of blue-ribbon winners, Autonetics is now producing in quantity and at low cost the N5G autonavigator. This is the pedigree that makes the GAM-77 HOUND DOG missile performance "best in show."
